PREFACE.

T bath often been observed with Concern, that the Study of the Laws of our Country bath been totally neglected in the ufual Education of ENGLISH Gentlemen; and, in particular, that no Opportunities of cultivating this Branch of Learning have bitherto been afforded in those excellent and illustrious Seminaries, wherein every other Science is taught in it's utmost Perfection. To remedy, in some little Degree, so just a Complaint, the Compiler of the following Sheets was induced about three Years ago* to institute, and fince to continue, a Course of Lectures, calculated for the Promotion of this Study in the University of Oxford. And as he was encouraged to enter upon this Undertaking by Gentlemen, both in the University and out of it, for whose Learning and Judgment the World has the highest Deference; so he cannot but acknowlege, with due Gratitude, the favorable Reception which bath been given it: A Mark of Approbation, which he is sensible must be attributed entirely to the Propriety of the Design, and not to the Manner of it's Execution.

Nov. 6. 1753.

In order to render this Attempt more extenfively useful, be thought it incumbent upon him to accommodate his Lectures, not only to the Use of fuch Students, as were more immediately defigued for the Profession of the common Law; but also of such other Gentlemen, as were defirous of some general Acquaintance with the Constitution and legal Polity of their native Country. He therefore made it his first Endeavour, to mark out a Plan of the Laws of ENGLAND, so comprehensive, as that every Title might be reduced under some or other of it's general Heads, which the Student might afterwards purfue to any Degree of Minuteness; and at the same time so contracted, that the Gentleman might with tolerable Application contemplate and understand the Whole. For if this was successfully performed, be apprehended be should then be enabled, with greater Perspicuity and Ease, to execute the Remainder of his Defign; in deducing the History and Antiquities of the principal Branches of Law, in selecting and illustrating their fundamental Principles and leading Rules, in explaining their Utility and Reason, and in comparing them with the Laws of Nature and of other Nations.

In the Pursuit of these bis Endeavours, be found bimself obliged to adopt a Method in many respects totally new. The most early, and indeed the most valuable, of those who have laboured in reducing our Laws to a System, are GLANVIL and BRACTON, BRITTON and the Author of FLETA: But these, and all others who preceded King HENRY the eighth, are so occupied in antient (be does not say, useless) Learning, that it had been but an awkward Attempt to engraft on their Stock the Improvements of later Ages. - FITZHER-BERT, and BROOK, and the subsequent Authors of Abridgments, have chosen a Method, the least adapted of any to convey the Rudiments of a Science; namely, that of the Alphabet. -Lord BACON, in his Elements, hath purposely avoided any regular Order; felecting only some distinct and dis-joined Aphorisms, according to his own Account of them; which however he bath expounded in so excellent a Manner, that the Narrowness of his Plan is therefore the more to be regretted. - The Institutes of Sir EDWARD COKE are unfortunately as deficient in Method, as they are rich in Matter; at least, the two first Parts of them; wherein, acting only the Part of a Commentator, he bath A 3 thrown thrown together an infinite Treasure of Learning in a loofe defultory Order. - Dr COWEL bath indeed endeavoured to reduce the Law of ENGLAND, in his Latin Institutions, to the Model of those of Justinian: And we cannot be surprized, that so forced and unnatural a Contrivance should be lame and defective in it's Execution. - Sir HENRY FINCH's Discourse of Law, is a Treatise of a very different Character: His Method is greatly superior to all that were before extant; bis Text is weighty, concise, and nervous; bis Illustrations are apposite, clear, and authentic. But, with all these Advantages, it is not sufficiently adapted to modern Use; since the subsequent Alterations of the Law, by the Abolition of military Tenures, and the Disuse of real Actions, have rendred near half of his Book obsolete. - Dr Wood has effectually removed this Objection, but has fallen into the contrary Extreme; his Institute being little more than FINCH's Discourse enlarged, and so throughly modernized, as to leave us frequently in the Dark, with regard to the Reason and Original of many still subsisting Laws, which are founded in remote Antiquity. And as in some Titles bis Plan is too contracted, in others also it seems to be too diffuse. Upon the Whole however his Work is undoubtedly edly a valuable Performance; and great are the Obligations of the Student to him, and his Predecessor Finch, for their happy Progress in reducing the Elements of Law from their former Chaos to a regular methodical Science. Yet, as neither could be followed entirely in the proposed Course of academical Lectures, it was judged the most eligible Way not to adopt them in Part; especially as there were extant the Outlines of a still superior Method, sketched by a very masterly Hand.

For, of all the Schemes bitherto made public for digesting the Laws of ENGLAND, the most natural and scientifical of any, as well as the most comprehensive, appeared to be that of Sir MATTHEW HALE, in his postbumous Analysis of the Law. This Distribution therefore bath been principally followed; with what Variations, the learned Reader will eafily perceive from the ensuing Abstract; and it may be no unprofitable Employment for the Student to learn by comparing them. For these the Compiler thinks it unnecessary to give his Reasons: For, fince those who have gone before him have fuccessively deviated from each other's Plan, be bopes to be excused, if, in order to adapt some things the better to his own Capacity, be frequently quently departs from them all; having in general rather chosen, by compounding their several Schemes, to extract a new Method of his own, than implicitly to copy after any.

Indeed had be closely adhered to HALE's, or any other Distribution, it might probably have rendered the Task be bad undertaken less laborious; at least, it would have saved him the Trouble of the present Publication. For he soon became sensible of one Inconvenience attending bis Deviation from former Systems: That, in a Course of oral Lectures, on a Science entirely new, and sometimes a little abstruse, it was not always easy for his Audience so far to command their Attention, as at once to apprehend both the Method and Matter delivered: And, whenever, through Inattention in the Hearers, or (too frequently) through Obscurity in the Reader, any Point of Importance was forgotten or misunderstood, it became next to impossible to gather up the broken Clue, without baving some written Compendium to which they might refort upon Occasion. These Considerations gave Birth to the following ANALYSIS, which exhibits the Order, and principal Divisions, of his Course; and is only to be confidered as a larger Syllabus, interspersed with a few Definitions and general Rules,

With

Rules, to assist the Recollection of such Gentlemen as have formerly honoured him with their Attendance; or such as may hereaster become his Auditors, till this Task shall fall into abler Hands, and the Province, which he originally undertook in a private Capacity, shall be put upon a public Establishment.

To the ANALYSIS is subjoined an APPENDIX, confisting of such Tables, Copies of Instruments, and Forms of judicial Proceedings, as were judged to be necessary for explaining certain Principles, and Matters of daily Practice; of which it was however impracticable to convey any adequate Idea by verbal Descriptions only. In the Explanation of one of thefe, the Table of Descents*, the Compiler bath been obliged to enter into a minute Discussion of a Point liable to some Controversy: This be could have wished to have avoided; but was fearful, of either appearing to mislead the Student, had no Notice been taken of Justice MANWOOD's Doctrine; or perhaps of really misleading him, had that Doctrine been followed in constructing the Table.

^{*} This related to the four first Editions of the ANALYSIS. In the present Edition the Tables are omitted; and the Student is referred to the supplemental Volume of LAW TRACTS, where these Matters are discussed more at large,

With regard to the Book in general, if by any Accident it should fall into other Hands than those for whose Use it is designed, the Author bopes it will meet with that Candor which is ever the Companion of found Learning. The Gentlemen of his own Profession, he is consident, will suspend their Censures of whatever (in this Abstract) may appear either dubious or unwarrantable; at least till they are informed how far (in the Work at large) it is guarded by Restrictions, qualified by Exceptions, or supported by Reason and Authority. And in the end, he must beg Leave to apply to his whole Understanding, as well as to this trifling Performance, the Words of bis Master LITTLETON: "Jeo ne voill que "tu crez, que tout ceo que jeo ay dit en lez "ditez Lyvers foit LEY; quar jeo ne ceo voill "emprendre, ne presumer sur moy. - Nient "meyns, coment que certen Choses, queux " font motes et specyfiez en lez ditez Lyvers, "ne sont pas LEY, uncore tielx Choses ferront "toy plus apte et able de entendre et apprendre "lez Argumentez et lez Reasons del LEY.

Thus much he thought it necessary to premise before the former Editions of the ANALYSIS, in 1756 and 1757. But the Book having, by some any fome means or other, met with a more general Reception out of the University than he ever apprehended it could have done, and another Impression being called for, he thought it incumbent upon bim, by revising and correcting what Inaccuracies had formerly escaped him, and adding a greater Variety of Precedents and Forms in the APPENDIX, to make it in some degree less unworthy the public Regard. When this was done, and the Sheets were just ready for Publication, he received the very fingular Honour from the University of being elected their first Professor of municipal Law, upon the public Establishment binted at in a former Page, with an ample Endowment from the Effects of the late Mr VINER. His introductory Lecture upon that Occasion being ordered to the Press, at the instance of the Governors of the University, was also thought proper to be prefixed to this Work; not only on account of their evident Connexion with each other, but also to relieve the Attention of the Reader by some Enquiries more interesting and amusing, than the dry Method of analytical Distribution, or the dull Forms of Conveyancing and Entries.

DISCOURSE

STUDY OF THE LAW.

MR VICE-CHANCELLOR, AND GENTLEMEN OF THE UNIVERSITY,

HE general expectation of so numerous and respectable an audience, the novelty, and (I may add) the importance of the duty required from this chair, must unavoidably be productive of great dissidence and apprehensions in him who has the honour to be placed in it. He must be sensible how much will depend upon his conduct duct in the infancy of a study, which is now first adopted by public academical authority; which has generally been reputed (however unjustly) of a dry and unfruitful nature; and of which the theoretical, elementary parts have hitherto received a very moderate share of cultivation. He cannot but reflect that, if either his plan of instruction be crude and injudicious, or the execution of it lame and superficial, it will cast a damp upon the farther progress of this most useful and most rational branch of learning; and may defeat for a time the publicspirited design of our wise and munificent benefactor. And this he must more especially dread, when he feels by experience how unequal his abilities are (unaffifted by preceding examples) to complete, in the manner he could wish, so extensive and arduous a task; fince he freely confesses, that his former more private attempts have fallen very short of his own ideas of perfection. And yet the candour he has already experienced, and this last transcendent mark of regard, his present nomination by the free and unanimous suffrage of a great and learned university, (an honour to be ever remembered with the deepest and most affectionate gratitude) these testimonies of your public judgment must entirely supersede his own, and forbid him to believe himhimself totally insufficient for the labour at least of this employment. One thing he will venture to hope for, and it certainly shall be his constant aim, by diligence and attention to atone for his other defects; esteeming, that the best return, which he can possibly make for your favourable opinion of his capacity, will be his unwearied endeavours in some little degree to deserve it.

THE science thus committed to his charge, to be cultivated, methodized, and explained in a course of academical lectures, is that of the laws and constitution of our own country: a species of knowlege, in which the gentlemen of England have been more remarkably deficient than those of all Europe besides. In most of the nations on the continent, where the civil or imperial law under different modifications is closely interwoven with the municipal laws of the land, no gentleman, or at least no scholar, thinks his education is completed, till he has attended a course or two of lectures, both upon the institutes of Justinian and the local constitutions of his native foil, under the very eminent profesfors that abound in their several universities. And in the northern parts of our own island, where also the municipal laws are frequently quently connected with the civil, it is difficult to meet with a person of liberal education, who is destitute of a competent knowlege in that science, which is to be the guardian of his natural rights and the rule of his civil conduct.

Nor have the imperial laws been totally neglected even in the english nation. A general acquaintance with their decisions has ever been deservedly confidered as no small accomplishment of a gentleman; and a fashion has prevailed, especially of late, to transport the growing hopes of this island to foreign universities, in Switzerland, Germany, and Holland; which, though infinitely inferior to our own in every other confideration, have been looked upon as better nurseries of the civil, or (which is nearly the same) of their own municipal law. In the mean time it has been the peculiar lot of our admirable fystem of laws, to be neglected, and even unknown, by all but one practical profeffion; though built upon the foundest foundations, and approved by the experience of ages.

FAR be it from me to derogate from the study of the civil law, considered (apart from any binding authority) as a collection of written reason. No man is more thoroughly persuaded of the general excellence of it's rules, and the usual equity of it's decisions; nor is better convinced of it's use as well as ornament to the scholar, the divine, the statesman, and even the common lawyer. But we must not carry our veneration so far as to sacrifice our Alfred and Edward to the manes of Theodosius and Justinian: we must not prefer the edict of the praetor, or the rescript of the roman emperor, to our own immemorial customs, or the sanctions of an english parliament; unless we can also prefer the despotic monarchy of Rome and Byzantium, for whose meridians the former were calculated, to the free constitution of Britain, which the latter are adapted to perpetuate.

WITHOUT detracting therefore from the real merit which abounds in the imperial law, I hope I may have leave to affert, that if an Englishman must be ignorant of either the one or the other, he had better be a stranger to the roman than the english institutions. For I think it an undeniable position, that a competent knowlege of the laws of that society, in which we live, is the proper accomplishment of every gentleman and scholar; an highly useful, I had almost said effential, part of liberal and polite education. And in this I am warranted by the example of B 2 antient Rome; where, as Cicero informs us, the very boys were obliged to learn the twelve tables by heart, as a carmen necessarium or indispensable lesson, to imprint on their tender minds an early knowlege of the laws and constitutions of their country.

But as the long and universal neglect of this study, with us in England, seems in some degree to call in question the truth of this evident position, it shall therefore be the business of this introductory lecture, in the first place to demonstrate the utility of some general acquaintance with the municipal law of the land, by pointing out its particular uses in all considerable situations of life. Some conjectures will then be offered with regard to the causes of neglecting this useful study: to which will be subjoined a few reslexions on the peculiar propriety of reviving it in our own universities.

AND, first, to demonstrate the utility of some acquaintance with the laws of the land, let us only reslect a moment on the singular frame and polity of that land, which is governed by this system of laws. A land, perhaps the only one in the universe, in which political or civil liberty is the very end and scope of the constitution . This liberty, rightly understood, confifts in the power of doing whatever the laws permit; which is only to be effected by a general conformity of all orders and degrees to those equitable rules of action, by which the meanest individual is protected from the infults and oppression of the greatest. As therefore every subject is interested in the preservation of the laws, it is incumbent upon every man to be acquainted with those at least, with which he is immediately concerned; left he incur the cenfure, as well as inconvenience, of living in fociety without knowing the obligations which it lays him under. And thus much may suffice for persons of inferior condition, who have neither time nor capacity to enlarge their views beyond that contracted fphere in which they are appointed to move. But those, on whom nature and fortune have bestowed more abilities and greater leifure, cannot be fo eafily excused. These advantages are given them, not for the benefit of themselves only, but also of the public: and yet they cannot, in any scene of life, discharge properly their duty either to the public or themselves, without some degree of knowlege in the laws. To evince this the more clearly, it may not be amiss to descend to a few particulars.

LET us therefore begin with our gentlemen of independent estates and fortune, the most useful as well as confiderable body of men in the nation; whom even to suppose ignorant in this branch of learning is treated by Mr Locke d as a strange absurdity. It is their landed property, with it's long and voluminous train of descents and conveyances, fettlements, entails, and incumbrances, that forms the most intricate and most extensive object of legal knowlege. The thorough comprehension of these, in all their minute distinctions, is perhaps too laborious a talk for any but a lawyer by profession: yet still the understanding of a few leading principles, relating to estates and conveyancing, may form fome check and guard upon a gentleman's inferior agents, and preserve him at least from very groß and notorious imposition.

AGAIN, the policy of all laws has made fome forms necessary in the wording of last wills and testaments, and more with regard to their d Education, §. 187.

attestation. An ignorance in these must always be of dangerous confequence, to fuch as by choice or necessity compile their own testaments without any technical affiftance. Those who have attended the courts of justice are the best witnesses of the confusion and distresses that are hereby occasioned in families; and of the difficulties that arise in discerning the true meaning of the testator, or sometimes in discovering any meaning at all: fo that in the end his estate may often be vested quite contrary to these his enigmatical intentions, because perhaps he has omitted one or two formal words, which are neceffary to ascertain the sense with indisputable legal precision, or has executed his will in the prefence of fewer witnesses than the law requires.

But to proceed from private concerns to those of a more public consideration. All gentlemen of fortune are, in consequence of their property, liable to be called upon to establish the rights, to estimate the injuries, to weigh the accusations, and sometimes to dispose of the lives of their fellow-subjects, by serving upon juries. In this situation they are frequently to decide, and that upon their oaths, questions of nice importance, in the solution of which some legal skill is requisite; especially where the law and the fact, as it often happens, are intimately blended together. And the general incapacity, even of our best juries, to do this with any tolerable propriety has greatly debased their authority; and has unavoidably thrown more power into the hands of the judges, to direct, control, and even reverse their verdicts, than perhaps the constitution intended.

But it is not as a juror only that the english gentleman is called upon to determine questions of right, and distribute justice to his fellowfubjects: it is principally with this order of men that the commission of the peace is filled. And here a very ample field is opened for a gentleman to exert his talents, by maintaining good order in his neighbourhood; by punishing the diffolute and idle; by protecting the peaceable and industrious; and, above all, by healing petty differences and preventing vexatious prosecutions. But, in order to attain these desirable ends, it is necessary that the magistrate should understand his business; and have not only the will, but the power also, (under which must be included the knowlege) of administring legal and effectual justice. Else, when he has mistaken his authority, through passion, through ignorance, or abfurdity, he will be the object of contempt from his inferiors, and of censure from those to whom he is accountable for his conduct.

YET farther; most gentlemen of considerable property, at some period or other in their lives, are ambitious of representing their country in parliament: and those, who are ambitious of receiving so high a trust, would also do well to remember it's nature and importance. They are not thus honourably diftinguished from the rest of their fellow-subjects, merely that they may privilege their persons, their estates, or their domestics; that they may lift under party banners; may grant or with-hold supplies; may vote with or vote against a popular or unpopular administration; but upon considerations far more interesting and important. They are the guardians of the english constitution; the makers, repealers, and interpreters of the english laws; delegated to watch, to check, and to avert every dangerous innovation, to propose, to adopt, and to cherish any solid and well-weighed improvement; bound by every tie of nature, of honour, and of religion, to transmit that constitution and those laws to their posterity, amended if possible, at least without any derogation. And how unbecoming must it appear in a member of the legislature to vote for a new law, who is utterly ignorant of the old! what kind of interpretation can he be enabled to give, who is a stranger to the text upon which he comments!

INDEED it is really amazing, that there should be no other state of life, no other occupation, art, or science, in which some method of instruction is not looked upon as requisite, except only the science of legislation, the noblest and most difficult of any. Apprenticeships are held necessary to almost every art, commercial or mechanical: a long course of reading and study must form the divine, the physician, and the practical professor of the laws: but every man of superior fortune thinks himself born a legislator. Yet Tully was of a different opinion: "It is necessary, says he', for a senator to be "thoroughly acquainted with the constitution; "and this, he declares, is a knowlege of the "most extensive nature; a matter of science, "of diligence, of reflexion; without which no "fenator can possibly be fit for his office."

THE mischiefs that have arisen to the public from inconsiderate alterations in our laws, are too obvious to be called in question; and how far they have been owing to the defective education of our fenators, is a point well worthy the public attention. The common law of England has fared like other venerable edifices of antiquity, which rash and unexperienced workmen have ventured to new dress and refine, with all the rage of modern improvement. Hence frequently it's fymmetry has been destroyed, it's proportions difforted, and it's majestic simplicity exchanged for specious embellishments and fantastic novelties. For, to say the truth, almost all the perplexed questions, almost all the niceties, intricacies, and delays (which have fometimes difgraced the english, as well as other, courts of justice) owe their original not to the common law itself, but to innovations that have been made in it by acts of parliament; "overladen (as lord Coke expresses it') with "provifoes and additions, and many times on a "fudden penned or corrected by men of none "or very little judgment in law." This great and well-experienced judge declares, that in all his time he never knew two questions made upon rights merely depending upon the common law; and warmly laments the confusion introduced by ill-judging and unlearned legislators.

"But if, he subjoins, acts of parliament were " after the old fashion penned, by such only as "perfectly knew what the common law was "before the making of any act of parliament "concerning that matter, as also how far forth "former statutes had provided remedy for for-"mer mischiefs and defects discovered by ex-"perience; then should very few questions in "law arife, and the learned should not so often "and fo much perplex their heads to make "atonement and peace, by construction of law, "between infenfible and difagreeing words, fentences, and provisoes, as they now do." And if this inconvenience was so heavily felt in the reign of queen Elizabeth, you may judge how the evil is increased in later times, when the statute book is swelled to ten times a larger bulk; unless it should be found, that the penners of our modern statutes have proportionably better informed themselves in the knowlege of the common law.

What is faid of our gentlemen in general, and the propriety of their application to the fludy of the laws of their country, will hold equally strong or still stronger with regard to the nobility of this realm, except only in the article of serving upon juries. But, instead of this, this, they have feveral peculiar provinces of far greater confequence and concern; being not only by birth hereditary counsellors of the crown, and judges upon their honour of the lives of their brother-peers, but also arbiters of the property of all their fellow-subjects, and that in the last resort. In this their judicial capacity they are bound to decide the nicest and most critical points of the law; to examine and correct fuch errors as have escaped the most experienced sages of the profession, the lord keeper and the judges of the courts at Westminster. Their sentence is final, decisive. irrevocable: no appeal, no correction, not even a review can be had: and to their determination, whatever it be, the inferior courts of justice must conform; otherwise the rule of property would no longer be uniform and steady.

SHOULD a judge in the most subordinate jurisdiction be deficient in the knowlege of the law, it would restect infinite contempt upon himself and disgrace upon those who employ him. And yet the consequence of his ignorance is comparatively very trisling and small: his judgment may be examined, and his errors rectified by other courts. But how much more serious and affecting is the case of a superior judge, judge, if without any skill in the laws he will boldly venture to decide a question, upon which the welfare and subsistence of whole families may depend! where the chance of his judging right, or wrong, is barely equal; and where, if he chances to judge wrong, he does an injury of the most alarming nature, an injury without possibility of redress!

YET, vast as this trust is, it can no where be fo properly reposed as in the noble hands where our excellent constitution has placed it: and therefore placed it, because, from the independence of their fortune and the dignity of their station, they are prefumed to employ that leifure which is the consequence of both, in attaining a more extensive knowlege of the laws than persons of inferior rank: and because the founders of our polity relied upon that delicacy of fentiment, fo peculiar to noble birth; which, as on the one hand it will prevent either interest or affection from interfering in questions of right, so on the other it will bind a peer in honour, an obligation which the law esteems equal to another's oath, to be master of those points upon which it is his birthright to decide.

THE roman pandects will furnish us with a piece of history not unapplicable to our prefent purpose. Servius Sulpicius, a gentleman of the patrician order, and a celebrated orator, had occasion to take the opinion of Quintus Mutius Scaevola, the oracle of the roman law; but for want of being conversant in that science, could not fo much as understand even the technical terms, which his counsel was obliged to make use of. Upon which Mutius Scaevola could not forbear to upbraid him with this memorable reproof s, "that it was a shame for a patrician, a " nobleman, and an orator, to be ignorant of that "law with which he was fo closely connected." Which reproach made fo deep an impression on Sulpicius, that he immediately applied himfelf to the study of the law; wherein he arrived to that proficiency, that he left behind him about a hundred and fourscore volumes of his own compiling upon the fubject; and became, in the opinion of Ciceroh, a much more complete lawyer than even Mutius Scaevola himself.

I would not be thought to recommend to our english nobility and gentry to become as h Brot. 41.

Ff. I. 2. 2. §. 43. Turpe esse patricio, & nobili, & causas eranti, jus in quo versaretur ignorare.

great lawyers as Sulpicius; though he, together with this character, sustained likewise that of an excellent orator, a firm patriot, and a wise indefatigable senator; but the inference which arises from the story is this, that ignorance of the laws of the land hath ever been esteemed dishonourable, in those who are entrusted by their country to maintain, to administer, and to amend them.

But furely there is little occasion to enforce this argument any farther to persons of rank and distinction, if we of this place may be allowed to form a general judgment from those who are under our inspection: happy, that while we lay down the rule, we can also produce the example. You will therefore permit your profeffor to indulge both a public and private fatisfaction, by bearing this open testimony; that in the very infancy of these studies among us, they were favoured with the most diligent attendance, and purfued with the most unwearied application, by those of the noblest birth and most ample patrimony: some of whom are still the ornaments of this feat of learning; and others at a greater distance continue doing honour to it's institutions, by comparing our polity and laws with those of other kingdoms abroad, the STUDY of the LAW. xxxiii abroad, or exerting their senatorial abilities in the councils of the nation at home.

Nor will some degree of legal knowlege be found in the least superfluous to persons of inferior rank; especially those of the learned professions. The clergy in particular, besides the common obligations they are under in proportion to their rank and fortune, have also abundant reason, considered merely as clergymen, to be acquainted with many branches of the law, which are almost peculiar and appropriated to themselves alone. Such are the laws relating to advowsons, institutions, and inductions; to simony, and fimoniacal contracts; to uniformity, refidence, and pluralities; to tithes and other ecclefiaftical dues; to marriages (more especially of late) and to a variety of other subjects, which are configned to the care of their order by the provisions of particular statutes. To understand these aright, to discern what is warranted or enjoined, and what is forbidden by law, demands a fort of legal apprehension; which is no otherwise to be acquired than by use and a familiar acquaintance with legal writers.

For the gentlemen of the faculty of physic, I must frankly own that I see no special reason, C why why they in particular should apply themselves to the study of the law; unless in common with other gentlemen, and to complete the character of general and extensive knowlege; a character which their profession, beyond others, has remarkably deserved. They will give me leave however to suggest, and that not ludicrously, that it might frequently be of use to families upon sudden emergencies, if the physician were acquainted with the doctrine of last wills and testaments, at least so far as relates to the formal part of their execution.

Bur those gentlemen who intend to profess the civil and ecclefiaftical laws in the spiritual and maritime courts of this kingdom, are of all men (next to common lawyers) the most indifpensably obliged to apply themselves seriously to the study of our municipal laws. For the civil and canon laws, confidered with respect to any intrinfic obligation, have no force or authority in this kingdom; they are no more binding in England than our laws are binding at Rome. But as far as these foreign laws, on account of fome peculiar propriety, have in some particular cases, and in some particular courts, been introduced and allowed by our laws, so far they oblige, and no farther; their authority being wholly wholly founded upon that permission and adoption. In which we are not fingular in our notions; for even in Holland, where the imperial law is much cultivated and it's decisions pretty generally followed, we are informed by Van Leeuwen', that "it receives it's force from "custom and the consent of the people, either "tacitly or expressly given: for otherwise, he "adds, we should no more be bound by this "law, than by that of the Almains, the Franks, "the Saxons, the Goths, the Vandals, and other "of the antient nations." Wherefore, in all points in which the different systems depart from each other, the law of the land takes place of the law of Rome, whether ancient or modern, imperial or pontificial. And in those of our english courts wherein a reception has been allowed to the civil and canon laws, if either they exceed the bounds of that reception, by extending themselves to other matters, than are permitted to them; or if fuch courts proceed according to the decisions of those laws, in cases wherein it is controlled by the law of the land, the common law in either instance both may, and frequently does, prohibit and annul their proceedings k: and it will not be a fufficient excuse for them to tell the king's courts at Westminster, that their practice is warranted by the laws of Justinian or Gregory, or is conformable to the decrees of the Rota or imperial chamber. For which reason it becomes highly necessary for every civilian and canonist that would act with fafety as a judge, or with prudence and reputation as an advocate, to know in what cases and how far the english laws have given fanction to the roman; in what points the latter are rejected; and where they are both fo intermixed and blended together, as to form certain supplemental parts of the common law of England, diftinguished by the titles of the king's maritime, the king's military, and the king's ecclefiaftical law. The propriety of which enquiry the univerfity of Oxford has for more than a century fo thoroughly feen, that in her statutes1 she appoints, that one of the three questions to be annually discussed at the act by the jurist-inceptors shall relate to the common law; subjoining this reason, "quia juris civilis " studiosos decet baud imperitos esse juris muni-"cipalis, & differentias exteri patriique juris "notas babere." ¹ Tit.VII. Sect. 2. §. 2. ^m Cowelli I. stit. Jur. Anglican. in Proëmio. FROM

From the general use and necessity of some acquaintance with the common law, the inference were extremely easy, with regard to the propriety of the present institution, in a place to which gentlemen of all ranks and degrees resort, as the sountain of all useful knowlege. But how it has come to pass that a design of this sort has never before taken place in the university, and the reason why the study of our laws has in general fallen into disuse, I shall previously proceed to enquire.

SIR John Fortescue, in his panegyric on the laws of England, (which was written in the reign of Henry the sixth) puts a very obvious question in the mouth of the young prince, whom he is exhorting to apply himself to that branch of learning; "why the laws of "England, being so good, so fruitful, and so "commodious, are not taught in the universi-"ties, as the civil and canon laws are?" In answer to which he gives what seems, with due deference be it spoken, a very jejune and unsatissactory reason; being in short, that "as the "proceedings at common law were in his time "carried on in three different tongues, the eng"lish, the latin, and the french, that science "must be necessarily taught in those three seve"ral languages; but that in the universities all "sciences were taught in the latin tongue only;

"and therefore he concludes, that they could "not be conveniently taught or studied in our "universities." But without attempting to examine seriously the validity of this reason, (the very shadow of which by the wisdom of your late constitutions is entirely taken away) we perhaps may find out a better, or at least a more plausible account, why the study of the municipal laws has been banished from these seats of science, than what the learned chancellor thought it prudent to give to his royal pupil.

THAT antient collection of unwritten maxims and customs, which is called the common law, however compounded or from whatever fountains derived, had subsisted immemorially in this kingdom; and, though somewhat altered and impaired by the violence of the times, had in great measure weathered the rude shock of the norman conquest. This had endeared it to the people in general, as well because it's decisions were universally known, as because it was found to be excellently adapted to the genius of the english nation. In the knowlege of this law confifted great part of the learning of those dark ages; it was then taught, fays Mr Selden , in the monasteries, in the universities, and in the families of the principal nobility. The clergy in particular, as they then engroffed almost every other branch of learning, so (like their predecessors the british druids?) they were peculiarly remarkable for their proficiency in the study of the law. Nullus clericus nifi caufidicus, is the character given of them foon after the conquest by William of Malmsbury'. The judges therefore were usually created out of the facred order', as was likewife the cafe among the Normans'; and all the inferior offices were supplied by the lower clergy, which has occafioned their fuccessors to be denominated clerks to this day.

But the common law of England, being not committed to writing, but only handed down by tradition, use, and experience, was not so heartily relished by the foreign clergy; who came over hither in shoals during the reign of the conqueror and his two fons, and were utter strangers to our constitution as well as our language. And an accident, which foon after happened, had nearly completed it's ruin. A copy of Justinian's pandects, being newly "discovered at Amalfi, foon brought the civil law into vogue all over the west of Europe, where before it was quite laid afide " and in a manner forgotten; though some traces of it's authority remained in Italy * and the eastern provinces of the empire '. This now became in a particular manner the favourite of the popish clergy, who borrowed the method and many of the maxims of their canon law from this original. The study of it was introduced into several universities abroad, particularly that of Bologna; where exercises were performed, lectures read, and degrees conferred in this faculty, as in other branches of science: and many nations on the continent, just then beginning to recover from the convulfions confequent upon the overthrow of the roman empire, and fettling by degrees into peaceable forms of government, adopted the civil law, (being the best written system then extant) as the basis of their several constitutions; blending and interweaving it among their own feodal customs, in some places with a more extensive, in others a more confined authority.

Nor was it long before the prevailing mode of the times reached England. For Theobald, a norman abbot, being elected to the fee of Canterbury', and extremely addicted to this new study, brought over with him in his retinue many learned proficients therein; and among the rest Roger sirnamed Vacarius, whom he placed in the university of Oxford b, to teach it to the people of this country. But it did not meet with the same easy reception in England, where a mild and rational fystem of laws had been long established, as it did upon the continent; and, though the monkish clergy (devoted to the will of a foreign primate) received it with eagerness and zeal, yet the laity who were more interested to preserve the old constitution, and had already feverely felt the effect of many norman innovations, continued wedded to the use of the common law. King Stephen immediately published a proclamation, forbidding the study of the laws, then newly imported from Italy; which was treated by the monks as a piece of impiety, and, though it might prevent the introduction of the civil law process into our courts of justice, yet did not hinder the clergy from reading and teaching it in their own schools and monasteries.

From this time the nation feems to have been divided into two parties; the bishops and clergy, many of them foreigners, who applied themselves wholly to the study of the civil and canon laws, which now came to be inseparably interwoven with each other; and the nobility and laity, who adhered with equal pertinacity to the old common law; both of them reciprocally jealous of what they were unacquainted with, and neither of them perhaps allowing the opposite system that real merit which is abundantly to be found in each. This appears on the one hand from the spleen with which the monastic writers · fpeak of our municipal laws upon all occafions; and, on the other, from the firm temper which the nobility shewed at the famous parliament of Merton; when the prelates endeavoured to procure an act, to declare all baftards legitimate in case the parents intermarried at any time afterwards; alleging this only reason, because holy church (that is, the canon law) declared fuch children legitimate: but "all the "earls and barons (fays the parliament roll ') " with one voice answered, that they would not "change the laws of England, which had hi-"therto been used and approved." And we find the same jealousy prevailing above a century afterwards s, when the nobility declared with a kind of prophetic spirit, "that the realm of "England hath never been unto this hour, nei-"ther by the confent of our lord the king and " the lords of parliament shall it ever be, ruled "or governed by the civil law "." And of this temper between the clergy and laity many more instances might be given.

WHILE things were in this fituation, the clergy, finding it impossible to root out the municipal law, began to withdraw themselves by degrees from the temporal courts; and to that end, very early in the reign of king Henry the third, episcopal constitutions were published, forbidding all ecclesiastics to appear as advocates in foro saeculari; nor did they long continue to act as judges there, nor caring to take the oath of office which was then found necessary to be administred, that they should in all things determine according to the law and custom of this realm'; though they still kept possession of the high office of chancellor, an office then of little juridical power; and afterwards, as it's business increased by degrees, they modelled the process of the court at their own discretion.

But wherever they retired, and wherever their authority extended, they carried with them the same zeal to introduce the rules of the civil, in exclusion of the municipal law. This appears in a particular manner from the spiritual courts of all denominations, from the chancellor's courts in both our universities, and from the high court of chancery before-mentioned; in all of which the proceedings are to this day in a course much conformed to the civil law: for which no tolerable reason can be assigned, unless that these courts were all under the immediate direction of the popish ecclesiastics, among whom it was a point of religion to exclude the municipal law; pope Innocent the fourth having forbidden the very reading of it by the clergy, because it's decisions were not founded on the imperial constitutions, but merely on the customs of the laity. And if it beconsidered, that our universities began about that period to receive their present form of scholastic discipline; that they were then, and continued to be till the time of the reformation, entirely under the influence of the popish clergy; (fir John Mason the first protestant, being also the first lay, chancellor of Oxford) this will lead us to perceive the reason, why the study of the roman laws was in those days of bigotry "

¹ M. PARIS ad A. D. 1254. m There cannot be a ftronger instance of the absurd and superstitious veneration that was paid to these laws, than that the most learned writers of the times thought they could not form a perfect character, even of the bleffed virgin, without making her a civilian and a canonist. Which Albertus Magnus, the renowned dominican doctor of the thirteenth century, thus proves in his Summa de laudibus christiferae virginis (divinum magis quam humanum opus) qu. 23. §. 5. "Item quod jura civilia, & leges, & decreta scivit in " summo, probatur boc modo: sapientia advocati manifestatur in " tribus; unum, quod obtineat omnia contra judicem justum & sa-" pientem; secundo, quod contra adversarium aftutum & saga-" cem; tertio, quod in causa desperata: sed beatissima virgo, " contra judicem sapientissimum, Dominum; contra adversarium " callidissimum, dyabolum; in causa nostra desperata; sententiam " optatam obtinuit." To which an eminent franciscan, two centuries afterwards, Bernardinus de Busti (Mariale, part. 4. ferm. 9.) very gravely subjoins this note. pursued with such alacrity in these seats of learning; and why the common law was entirely despised, and esteemed little better than heretical.

AND, fince the reformation, many causes have conspired to prevent it's becoming a part of academical education. As, first, long usage and established custom; which, as in everything elfe, so especially in the forms of scholastic exercise, have justly great weight and authority. Secondly, the real intrinsic merit of the civil law, confidered upon the footing of reason and not of obligation, which was well known to the instructors of our youth; and their total ignorance of the merit of the common law, though it's equal at least, and perhaps an improvement on the other. But the principal reason of all, that has hindered the introduction of this branch of learning, is, that the study of the common law, being banished from hence in the times of popery, has fallen into a quite different chanel, and has hitherto been wholly cultivated in another place. But as this long usage and established custom, of ignorance in the laws of the land, begin now to be thought unreasonable;

[&]quot;dreae glossatoris, quod tantam peritiam in utroque jure babuit, ut publice in scholis legere ausa sit.

and as by this means the merit of those laws will probably be more generally known; we may hope that the method of studying them will soon revert to it's antient course, and the foundations at least of that science will be laid in the two universities; without being exclusively confined to the chanel which it fell into at the times I have been just describing.

For, being then entirely abandoned by the clergy, a few stragglers excepted, the study and practice of it devolved of course into the hands of laymen; who entertained upon their parts a most hearty aversion to the civil law, and made no scruple to profess their contempt, nay even their ignorance of it, in the most public manner. But still, as the ballance of learning was greatly on the side of the clergy, and as the common law was no longer taught, as formerly, in any part of the kingdom, it must have been subjected to many inconveniences, and perhaps would have been gradually lost and overrun by the civil, (a suspicion well justified from the frequent transcripts of Justinian to be met with in Bracton and Fleta) had it not been for a peculiar incident, which happened at a very critical time, and contributed greatly to it's support.

[&]quot; FORTESC. de laud. LL. c.25. o This remarkably appeared in the case of the abbot of Torun, M. 22 E. 3. 14. who had caused a certain prior to be summoned to answer at Avig-· non for erecting an oratory contra inhibitionem novi operis; by which words Mr Selden, (in Flet. 8. 5.) very justly understands to be meant the title de novi operis nuntiatione both in the civil and canon laws, (Ff. 39. 1. C. 8. 11. and Decretal. not Extrav. 5. 32.) whereby the erection of any new buildings in prejudice of more antient ones was prohibited. But Skipwith the king's ferjeant, and afterwards chief baron of the exchequer, declares them to be flat nonfense; "in ceux parolx, contra inhibi-"tionem novi operis, my ad pas entendment:" and justice Schardelow mends the matter but little by informing him, that they fignify a restitution in their law; for which reason he very fagely resolves to pay no fort of regard to them. "Ceo n'est que un re-"flitution en lour ley, pur que a ceo n'avomus regard, &c."

The incident I mean was the fixing the court of common pleas, the grand tribunal for disputes of property, to be held in one certain spot; that the seat of ordinary justice might be permanent and notorious to all the nation. Formerly that, in conjunction with all the other superior courts, was held before the king's capital justiciary of England, in the aula regis, or such of his palaces wherein his royal person resided; and removed with his houshold from one end of the kingdom to the other. This was sound to occasion great inconvenience to the suitors; to remedy which it was made an article of the great charter of liberties, both that of king John and king Henry the third, that "common pleas should no longer follow the "king's court, but be held in some certain "place:" in consequence of which they have ever fince been held (a few necessary removals in times of the plague excepted) in the palace of Westminster only. This brought together the profesfors of the municipal law, who before were dispersed about the kingdom, and formed them into an aggregate body; whereby a fociety was established of persons, who (as Spelman observes) addicting themselves wholly to the study of the laws of the land, and no longer confidering it as a mere subordinate science for the amusement of leisure hours, soon raised those laws to that pitch of perfection, which they fuddenly attained under the auspices of our english Justinian, king Edward the first.

IN consequence of this lucky affemblage, they naturally fell into a kind of collegiate order; and, being excluded from Oxford and Cambridge, found it necessary to establish a new university of their own. This they did by purchasing at various times certain houses (now called the inns of court and of chancery) between the city of Westminster, the place of holding the king's courts, and the city of London; for advantage of ready access to the one, and plenty of provisions in the other. Here exercises were performed, lectures read, and degrees were at length conferred in the common law, as at other universities in the canon and civil. The degrees were those of barristers (first stiled apprentices from apprendre, to learn) who answered to our bachelors; as the state and degree of a serjeant, servientis ad legem, did to that of doctor.

'FORTESC. C. 48. 'Apprentices or Barristers seem to have been first appointed by an ordinance of king Edward the first in parliament, in the 20th year of his reign. (SPELM. Gloss. 37. Dugdale's Orig. jurid. 55.)

The first mention I have met with in our lawbooks of ferjeants or countors, is in the flatute of Westm. 1. 3 Edw. 1. c. 29. and in Honn's Mirror, c. 1. 5. 10. c. 2. 5. 5. c. 3. 5.1. in the fame reign. But M. Paris in his life of John II, abbot of St. Alban's, which he wrote in 1255, 39 Hen, 3. speaks of advocates at the common law, or counters (ques banci narratores vulgariter appellamus) as an order of men well known, And we have an example of the antiquity of the coif in the fame author's history of England, A.D. 1259. in the case of one William de Buffy; who, being called to account for his great knavery and mal-practices, claimed the benefit of his orders, which were totally unsuspected; and to that end voluit ligamenta roifat fuat folivere, ut palam monstraret se tonsuram habere chericalem; sed non est permissus. - Satelles vero cum arripiens, non per coifae ligamina fed per guttur eum aptrebendens, traxit ad carcèrem. And hence Sir H. Spelman conjectures, (Glossar. 335.) that coifs were introduced to hide the tonfure of fuch renegade clerks, as were still tempted to remain in the fecular courts' in the quality of advocates or judges, notwithstanding their prohibition by canon. THE

THE crown feems to have foon taken under it's protection this infant feminary of common law; and, the more effectually to foster and cherish it, king Henry the third in the nineteenth year of his reign issued out an order directed to the mayor and theriffs of London, commanding that no regent of any law schools within that city should for the future teach law therein . The word, law, or leges, being a general term, may create fome doubt at this distance of time whether the teaching of the civil law, or the common, or both, is hereby restrained. But in either case it tends to the fame end. If the civil law only is prohibited, (which is Mr Selden's opinion) it is then a retaliation upon the clergy, who had excluded the common law from their feats of learning. If the municipal law be also included in the restriction, (as fir Edward Coke " understands it, and which the words feem to import) then the intention is evidently this; by preventing private teachers within the walls of the city, to collect all the common lawyers into the one public university, which was newly instituted in the suburbs.

In this juridical university (for such it is infifted to have been by Fortescue, and fir Edward Coke :) there are two forts of collegiate houses; one called inns of chancery, in which the younger students of the law used to be placed, "learning and studying, says Fortescue", " the originals and as it were the elements of " the law; who, profiting therein, as they grow "to ripeness so are they admitted into the greater inns of the same study, called the inns " of court." And in these inns of both kinds. he goes on to tell us, the knights and barons, with other grandees and noblemen of the realm, did use to place their children, though they did not defire to have them thoroughly learned in the law, or to get their living by it's practice: and that in his time there were about two thousand students at these several inns. all of whom he informs us were filii nobilium, or gentlemen born.

Hence it is evident, that (though under the influence of the monks our universities neglected this study, yet) in the time of Henry the sixth it was thought highly necessary and was the universal practice, for the young nobility and gen-to be instructed in the originals and elements of the laws. But by degrees this custom has fallen into difuse; so that in the reign of queen Elizabeth fir Edward Coke does not reckon above a thousand students, and the number at present is very considerably less. Which feems principally owing to these reasons: first, because the inns of chancery being now almost totally filled by the inferior branch of the profession, they are neither commodious nor proper for the refort of gentlemen of any rank or figure; fo that there are now very rarely any young students entered at the inns of chancery: fecondly, because in the inns of court all fort of regimen and academical superintendance, either with regard to morals or studies, are found impracticable and therefore entirely neglected: laftly, because persons of birth and fortune, after having finished their usual courses at the universities, have feldom leifure or resolution sufficient to enter upon a new scheme of study at a new place of instruction. Wherefore few gentlemen now refort to the inns of court, but such for whom the knowlege of practice is absolutely necessary; such, I mean, as are intended for the profession: the rest of our gentry, (not to say our nobility also) having usually retired to their estates, or visited foreign kingdoms, or entered upon public life, without any instruction in the laws of the land; and indeed with hardly any opportunity of gaining instruction, unless it can be afforded them in these seats of learning.

AND that these are the proper places, for affording affiftances of this kind to gentlemen of all stations and degrees, cannot (I think) with any colour of reason be denied. For not one of the objections, which are made to the inns of court and chancery, and which I have just enumerated, will hold with regard to the universities. Gentlemen may here affociate with gentlemen of their own rank and degree. Nor are their conduct and studies left entirely to their own discretion; but regulated by a discipline so wife and exact, yet so liberal, so sensible and manly, that their conformity to it's rules (which does at present so much honour to our youth) is not more the effect of conftraint, than of their own inclinations and choice. Neither need they apprehend too long an avocation hereby from their private concerns and amusements, or (what is a more noble object) the service of their friends and their country. This study will go hand in hand with their other pursuits:

it will obstruct none of them; it will ornament and assist them all.

BUT if, upon the whole, there are any, still wedded to monastic prejudice, that can entertain a doubt how far this study is properly and regularly academical, such persons I am afraid either have not confidered the constitution and defign of an university, or else think very meanly of it. It must be a deplorable narrowness of mind, that would confine these seats of instruction to the limited views of one or two learned professions. To the praise of this age be it spoken, a more open and generous way of thinking begins now univerfally to prevail. The attainment of liberal and genteel accomplishments, though not of the intellectual fort, has been thought by our wifest and most affectionate patrons, and very lately by the whole university, no small improvement of our antient plan of education;

E Lord chancellor CLARENDON, in his dialogue of education, among his trafts, p. 325. appears to have been very folicitous, that it might be made "a part of the ornament of our "learned academies to teach the qualities of riding, dancing, "and fencing, at those hours when more ferious exercises "should be intermitted."

d By accepting in full convocation the remainder of lord Clarendon's history from his noble descendants, on condition to apply the profits arising from it's publication to the establishment of a manage in the university.

and therefore I may fafely affirm that nothing (how unufual foever) is, under due regulations, improper to be taught in this place, which is proper for a gentleman to learn. But that a science, which distinguishes the criterions of right and wrong; which teaches to establish the one, and prevent, punish, or redress the other; which employs in it's theory the noblest faculties of the foul, and exerts in it's practice the cardinal virtues of the heart; a science. which is univerfal in it's use and extent, accommodated to each individual, yet comprehending the whole community; that a science like this should have ever been deemed unnecessary to be studied in an university, is matter of astonishment and concern. Surely, if it were not before an object of academical knowlege, it was high time to make it one; and to those who can doubt the propriety of it's reception among us (if any fuch there be) we may return an answer in their own way; that ethics are confessedly a branch of academical learning, and Aristotle bimself bas said, speaking of the laws of his own country, that jurisprudence or the knowlege of those laws is the principal and most • perfect branch of ethics.

FROM a thorough conviction of this truth, our munificent benefactor Mr VINER, having employed above half a century in amassing materials for new modelling and rendering more commodious the rude study of the laws of the land, configned both the plan and execution of these his public-spirited designs to the wisdom of his parent university. Resolving to dedicate his learned labours "to the benefit of posterity and "the perpetual fervice of his country'," he was fensible he could not perform his resolutions in a better and more effectual manner, than by extending to the youth of this place those affistances, of which he fo well remembered and fo heartily regretted the want. And the fense, which the university has entertained of this ample and most useful benefaction, must appear beyond a doubt from their gratitude in receiving it with all possible marks of esteem ; from their alacrity and unexampled dispatch in carrying it into execution'; and, above all, from the

We have feen an universal emulation, who best should understand, or most faithfully pursue, the designs of our generous patron: and with pleasure we recollect, that those who are most distinguished by their quality, their fortune, their station, their learning, or their experience, have appeared the most zealous to promote the success of Mr Viner's establishment,

retrenching it's fuperfluities, and reconciling the little contrarieties, which the practice of many centuries will necessarily create in any human fystem: a task, which those who are deeply employed in bufiness, and the more active scenes of the profession, can hardly condescend to engage in. And as to the interest, or (which is the same) the reputation of the univerfities themselves, I may venture to pronounce, that if ever this study should arrive to any tolerable perfection either here or at Cambridge, the nobility and gentry of this kingdom would not shorten their refidence upon this account, nor perhaps entertain a worse opinion of the benefits of academical education. Neither should it be confidered as a matter of light importance, that while we thus extend the pomoeria of university learning, and adopt a new tribe of citizens within these philosophical walls, we interest a very numerous and very powerful profession in the preservation of our rights and revenues.

For I think it is past dispute that those gentlemen, who resort to the inns of court with a view to pursue the profession, will find it expedient (whenever it is practicable) to lay the previous foundations of this, as well as every other science, in one of our learned universities. We may appeal to the experience of every fensible lawyer, whether any thing can be more hazardous or discouraging than the usual entrance on the study of the law. A raw and unexperienced youth, in the most dangerous season of life, is transplanted on a sudden into the midst of allurements to pleasure, without any restraint or check but what his own prudence can fuggest; with no public direction in what course to purfue his enquiries; no private affistance to remove the distresses and difficulties, which will always embarass a beginner. In this situation he is expected to fequester himself from the world, and by a tedious lonely process to extract the theory of law from a mass of undigested learning; or elfe by an affiduous attendance on the courts to pick up theory and practice together, fufficient to qualify him for the ordinary run of business. How little therefore is it to be wondered at, that we hear of fo frequent miscarriages; that so many gentlemen of bright imaginations grow weary of fo unpromising a search', and addict themselves

^{&#}x27;Sir Henry Spelman, in the preface to his glossary, gives us a very lively picture of his own distress upon this occasion. "Emist me mater Londinum, juris nostri capessendi gratia; "cujus cum westibulum salutassem, reperissemque linguam peregries nam, dialectum barbaram, methodum inconcinnam, molem non ingentem solum sed perpetuis humeris sustinendam, excidit mihi se (fateor) animus, &c."

themselves wholly to amusements, or other less innocent pursuits; and that so many persons of moderate capacity confuse themselves at first setting out, and continue ever dark and puzzled during the remainder of their lives!

THE evident want of some affistance in the rudiments of legal knowlege, has given birth to a practice, which, if ever it had grown to be general, must have proved of extremely pernicious consequence: I mean the custom, by some fo very warmly recommended, to drop all liberal education, as of no use to lawyers; and to place them, in it's stead, at the desk of some skilful attorney; in order to initiate them early in all the depths of practice, and render them more dextrous in the mechanical part of business. A few instances of particular persons, (men of excellent learning, and unblemished integrity) who, in spight of this method of education, have shone in the foremost ranks of the bar, have afforded some kind of fanction to this illiberal path to the profession, and biassed many parents, of shortfighted judgment, in it's favour: not confidering, that there are some geniuses, formed to overcome all disadvantages, and that from fuch particular instances no general rules can be formed; nor observing, that those very persons persons have frequently recommended by the most forcible of all examples, the disposal of their own offspring, a very different soundation of legal studies, a regular academical education. Perhaps too, in return, I could now direct their eyes to our principal seats of justice, and suggest a few hints, in favour of university learning: — but in these all who hear me, I know, have already prevented me.

MAKING therefore due allowance for one or two shining exceptions, experience may teach us to foretell that a lawyer thus educated to the bar, in subservience to attorneys and folicitors", will find he has begun at the wrong end. If practice be the whole he is taught, practice must also be the whole he will ever know; if he be uninstructed in the elements and first principles upon which the rule of practice is founded, the least variation from established precedents will totally distract and bewilder him: ita lex scripta eft" is the utmost his knowlege will arrive at; he must never aspire to form, and seldom expect to comprehend, any arguments drawn a priori, from the spirit of the laws and the natural foundations of justice.

n Ff. 40. 9. 12.

Non is this all; for (as few persons of birth. or fortune, or even of scholastic education, will fubmit to the drudgery of fervitude and the manual labour of copying the trash of an office) should this infatuation prevail to any considerable degree, we must rarely expect to see a gentleman of distinction or learning at the bar. And what the confequence may be, to have the interpretation and enforcement of the laws (which include the entire disposal of our properties, liberties, and lives) fall wholly into the hands of obscure or illiterate men, is matter of very public concern.

THE inconveniences here pointed out can never be effectually prevented, but by making academical education a previous step to the profession of the common law, and at the same time making the rudiments of the law a part of academical education. For sciences are of a sociable disposition, and flourish best in the neighbourhood of each other: nor is there any branch of learning, but may be helped and improved by affiftances drawn from other arts. If therefore the student in our laws hath formed both his fentiments and style, by perusal and imitation of the purest classical writers, among whom the historians and orators will best deserve his regard; if he can reason with precision, and separate argument from fallacy, by the clear fimple rules of pure unsophisticated logic; if he can fix his attention, and steadily pursue truth through any the most intricate deduction, by the use of mathematical demonstrations; if he has enlarged his conceptions of nature and art, by a view of the feveral branches of genuine, experimental, philosophy; if he has impressed on his mind the found maxims of the law of nature, the best and most authentic foundation of human laws; if, lastly, he has contemplated those maxims reduced to a practical system in the laws of imperial Rome; if he has done this or any part of it, (though all may be easily done under as able instructors as ever graced any feats of learning) a student thus qualified may enter upon the study of the law with incredible advantage and reputation. And if, at the conclusion, or during the acquisition of these accomplishments, he will afford himself here a year or two's farther leifure, to lay the foundation of his future labours in a folid scientifical method. without thirsting too early to attend that practice which it is impossible he should rightly comprehend, he will afterwards proceed with the greatest ease, and will unfold the most intricate the STUDY of the LAW. lxv intricate points with an intuitive rapidity and clearness.

I SHALL not infift upon fuch motives as might be drawn from principles of oeconomy, and are applicable to particulars only: I reason upon more general topics. And therefore to the qualities of the head, which I have just enumerated, I cannot but add those of the heart; affectionate loyalty to the king, a zeal for liberty and the constitution, a sense of real honour, and well grounded principles of religion; as necesfary to form a truly valuable english lawyer, a Hyde, a Hale, or a Talbot. And, whatever the ignorance of some, or unkindness of others, may have heretofore untruly fuggested, experience will warrant us to affirm, that these endowments of loyalty and public spirit, of honour and religion, are no where to be found in more high perfection than in the two universities of this kingdom.

Before I conclude, it may perhaps be expected, that I lay before you a short and general account of the method I propose to follow, in endeavouring to execute the trust you have been pleased to repose in my hands. And in these solemn lectures, which are ordained to be read at the entrance of every term, (more perhaps to do public honour to this laudable inftitution, than for the private instruction of individuals ") I prefume it will best answer the intent of our benefactor and the expectation of this learned body. if I attempt to illustrate at times such detached titles of the law, as are the most easy to be understood, and most capable of historical or critical ornament. But in reading the complete course, which is annually configned to my care, a more regular method will be necessary; and, till a better is proposed, I shall take the liberty to follow the fame that I have already submitted to the public. To fill up and finish that outline with propriety and correctness, and to render the whole intelligible to the uninformed minds of beginners, (whom we are too apt to suppose acquainted with terms and ideas, which they never had opportunity to learn) this must be my ardentendeavour, though by no means my promife to accomplish. You will permit me however very briefly to describe, rather what I conceive an academical expounder of the laws should do, than what I have ever known to be done.

HE should consider his course as a general map of the law, marking out the shape of the country,

country, it's connexions and boundaries, it's greater divisions and principal cities: it is not his business to describe minutely the subordinate limits, or to fix the longitude and latitude of every inconsiderable hamlet. His attention should be engaged, like that of the readers in Fortescue's inns of chancery, "in tracing out the ori-" ginals and as it were the elements of the law." For if, as Justinian has observed, the tender understanding of the student be loaded at the first with a multitude and variety of matter, it will either occasion him to defert his studies, or will carry him heavily through them, with much labour, delay, and despondence. These originals should be traced to their fountains, as well as our distance will permit; to the customs of the Britons and Germans, as recorded by Caefar and Tacitus; to the codes of the northern nations on the continent, and more especially to those of our own faxon princes; to the rules of the roman law, either left here in the days of Papi-nian, or imported by Vacarius and his followers; but, above all, to that inexhaustible refervoir of legal antiquities and learning, the feodal law, or, as Spelman has entitled it, the law of nations in our western orb. These primary rules and fundamental principles should be weighed and compared with the precepts of the law of nature, and the practice of other countries; should be explained by reasons, illustrated by examples, and confirmed by undoubted authorities; their history should be deduced, their changes and revolutions observed, and it should be shewn how far they are connected with, or have at any time been affected by, the civil transactions of the kingdom.

A PLAN of this nature, if executed with care and ability, cannot fail of administring a most useful and rational entertainment to students of all ranks and professions; and yet it must be confessed that the study of the laws is not merely a matter of amusement: for as a very judicious writer 'has observed upon a similar occasion, the learner "will be considerably disappointed "if he looks for entertainment without the ex"pence of attention." An attention, however, not greater than is usually bestowed in mastering the rudiments of other sciences, or sometimes in pursuing a favorite recreation or exercife. And this attention is not equally necessary to be exerted by every student upon every occafion. Some branches of the law, as the formal process of civil suits, and the subtile distinctions incident to landed property, which are the most difficult to be thoroughly understood, are the least worth the pains of understanding, except to fuch gentlemen as intend to purfue the profession. To others I may venture to apply, with a flight alteration, the words of fir John Fortefcue', when first his royal pupil determines to engage in this study. "It will not be necessary " for a gentleman, as fuch, to examine with a "close application the critical niceties of the "law. It will fully be fufficient, and he may

"well enough be denominated a lawyer, if "under the instruction of a master he traces "up the principles and grounds of the law, "even to their original elements. Therefore "in a very short period, and with very little "labour, he may be fufficiently informed in "the laws of his country, if he will but apply "his mind in good earnest to receive and ap-"prehend them. For, though fuch knowlege " as is necessary for a judge is hardly to be ac-"quired by the lucubrations of twenty years, "yet with a genius of tolerable perspicacity, "that knowlege which is fit for a person of "birth or condition may be learned in a fingle "year, without neglecting his other improve-" ments."

To the few therefore (the very few, I am persuaded,) that entertain such unworthy notions of an university, as to suppose it intended for mere dissipation of thought; to such as mean only to while away the aukward interval from childhood to twenty one, between the restraints of the school and the licentiousness of politer life, in a calm middle state of mental and of moral inactivity; to these Mr Viner gives no invitation to an entertainment which they never can relish. But to the long and illustrious train of noble and ingenuous youth, who are not more distinguished among us by their birth and possessions, than by the regularity of their conduct and their thirst after useful knowlege, to these our benefactor has consecrated the fruits of a long and laborious life, worn out in the duties of his calling; and will joyfully reflect (if fuch reflexions can be now the employment of his thoughts) that he could not more effectually have benefited posterity, or contributed to the fervice of the public, than by founding an institution which may instruct the rising generation in the wisdom of our civil polity, and inform them with a defire to be still better acquainted with the laws and constitution of their country.

POSTSCRIPT.

IN order that the extent of Mr VINER'S benefaction to the university of Oxford, and the encouragements now given (in consequence thereof) to the study of the law in that place, may be more universally understood, it is thought proper to subjoin to this discourse a short account of the establishment formed by the university, in pursuance of Mr VINER's will, bearing date 29 December 1755.

The statutes are in substance as follows:

- I. THAT the accounts of this benefaction be separately kept, and annually audited by the delegates of accounts and professor, and afterwards reported to convocation.
- 2. THAT a professorship of the laws of England be established, with a salary of 200/. per annum; the professor to be elected by convocation, and to be at the time of his election at least a master of arts or bachelor of civil law in the university of Oxford, of ten years standing from his matriculation; and also a barrister at law of four years standing at the bar.

3. THAT fuch professor (by himself, or by deputy to be previously approved by convocation) do read one folemn public lecture on the laws of England, and in the english language, in every academical term, at certain stated times previous to the commencement of the common law term; or forfeit 20 1. for every omission to Mr VINER's general fund: and also (by himself, or by deputy to be approved, if occasional, by the vice-chancellor and proctors; or, if permanent, both the cause and the deputy to be annually approved by convocation) do yearly read one complete course of lectures on the laws of England, and in the english language, confisting of fixty lectures at the least; to be read during the university term time, with fuch proper intervals that not more than four lectures may fall within any fingle week: that the profesfor do give a month's notice of the time when the course is to begin, and do read gratis to the scholars of Mr VINER's foundation, but may demand of other auditors such gratuity as shall be settled from time to time by decree of convocation: and that, for every of the said sixty lectures omitted, the professor, on complaint made to the vice-chancellor within the year, do forfeit 40 s. to Mr VINER's general sund; the proof of having performed his duty to lie upon the said professor.

4. THAT every professor do continue in his office during life, unless in case of such misbehaviour as shall amount to bannition by the university statutes; or unless he deserts the profession of the law by betaking himself to another profession; or unless, after one admonition by the vice-chancellor and proctors for notorious neglect, he is guilty of another slagrant omission: in any of which cases he be deprived by the vice-chancellor, with consent of the house of convocation.

a This gratuity is fettled to be four guineas for the first course, and two for the second; but nothing for any subsequent attendance. And the present professor hath made it an invariable rule, to admit no other pupils but matriculated members of the university, and the private tutors of matriculated noblemen and gentlemen, allowed by their academical governors.

- 6. That every fellow be elected by convocation, and at the time of election be unmarried, and at least a master of arts or bachelor of civil law, and a member of some college or hall in the university of Oxford; the scholars of this foundation or such as have been scholars (if qualified and approved of by convocation) to have the preference: that, if not a barrister when chosen, he be called to the bar within one year after his election; but do reside in the university two months in every year, or in case of non-residence do forfeit the stipend of that year to Mr VINER's general fund.
- 7. THAT every scholar be elected by convocation, and at the time of election be unmarried, and a member of some college or hall in the university of Oxford, who shall have been matriculated twenty sour calendar months at the least: that he do take the degree of bachelor of civil law with all convenient speed; (either proceeding in arts or otherwise) and previous to his taking the fame, between the fecond and eighth year from his matriculation, be bound to attend two courses of the professor's lectures, to be certified under the professor's hand; and within one year after taking the fame be called to the bar: that he do annually refide fix months till he is of four years standing, and four months from that time till he is mafter of arts or bachelor of civil law; after which he be bound to refide two months in every year; or, in case of non-residence, do forfeit the stipend of that year to Mr VINER's general fund.

8. That the scholarships do become void in case of non-attendance on the professor, or not taking the degree of bachelor of civil law, being duly admonished so to do by the vice-chancellor and proctors: and that both sellowships and scholarships do expire at the end of ten years after each respective election; and become void in case of gross misbehaviour, non-residence for two years together, marriage, not being called to the bar within the time before limited, (being duly admonished nished so to be by the vice-chancellor and proctors) or deserting the profession of the law by following any other profession: and that in any of these cases the vice-chancellor, with consent of convocation, do declare the place actually void.

9. That in case of any vacancy of the professorship, fellowships, or scholarships, the profits of the current year be ratably divided between the predecessor or his representatives, and the successor; and that a new election be had within one month afterwards, unless by that means the time of election shall fall within any vacation, in which case it be deferred to the first week in the next full term. And that before any convocation shall be held for such election, or for any other matter relating to Mr Viner's benefaction, ten days public notice be given to each college and hall of the convocation, and the cause of convoking it.

ANALYSIS

LAWS OF ENGLAND.

BOOK THE FIRST.

CHAPTER I.

Of the Nature of LAWS in general.

AW is a Rule of Action, prescribed by a superior Power.

NATURAL Law is the Rule of HUMAN Action, prescribed by the Creator, and discoverable by the Light of Reason.

The DIVINE, or REVEALED, Law (confidered as a Rule of Action) is also the Law of Nature, imparted by God himself.

F 3 4. The

The Law of NATIONS is that which regulates the Conduct and mutual Intercourse of independent States with each other, by Reason and natural Justice.

5

MUNICIPAL, or CIVIL, Law is the Rule of civil Conduct, prescribed by the supreme Power in a State, commanding what is RIGHT, and prohibiting what is WRONG.

6.

Society is formed for the Protection of Individuals; and States, or Government, for the Prefervation of Society.

7.

In all States there is an absolute SUPREME Power, to which the Right of Legislation belongs; and which, by the singular Constitution of these Kingdoms, is vested in the King, Lords, and Commons.

8.

The Parts of a Law are, I. The DECLARA-TORY; which defines what is Right, and Wrong. 2. The DIRECTORY; which confifts in commanding the Observation of Right, or prohibiting the Commission of Wrong. 3. The REMEDIAL; or Method of recovering private Rights, and redressing private Wrongs. 4. The VINDICATORY Sanction of Punishments for public Wrongs; wherein consists the most forcible Obligation of human Laws. 9,

To INTERPRET a Law, we must enquire after the Will of the Maker: Which may be collected either from the Words, the Context, the Subjectmatter, the Effects and Consequence, or the Spirit and Reason of the Law.

10.

From the latter Method of Interpretation arises Equity, or the Correction of that wherein the Law (by reason of it's Universality) is deficient.

CHAP. II.

Of the GROUNDS and FOUNDATION of the Laws of England.

I.

THE Laws of ENGLAND are of two Kinds; the UNWRITTEN OF COMMON Law, and the WRITTEN OF STATUTE Law.

2.

The UNWRITTEN Law includes, 1. General Customs. 2. Particular Customs. 3. Particular Laws.

2

GENERAL CUSTOMS, or the COMMON Law properly fo called, are founded upon immemorial universal Usage, whereof judicial Decisions are the Evidence; which Decisions are preserved in the public Records, Records, explained in the Year-Books and Reports, and digested by Writers of approved Authority.

PARTICULAR CUSTOMS are those which are only in Use within some peculiar Districts; as Gavelkind, the Customs of London, &c.

5.

These — 1. must be proved to exist; — 2. must appear to be legal; that is, immemorial, continued, peaceable, reasonable, certain, compulsory, beneficial, and consistent; — 3. must, when allowed, receive a strict Construction.

6.

PARTICULAR Laws are fuch as, by special Custom, are adopted and used only in certain peculiar Courts, under the Superintendance and Controll of the common and statute Law; namely, the ROMAN CIVIL and CANON Laws.

7.

The WRITTEN or STATUTE Laws are the Acts which are made by the King, Lords, and Commons, in Parliament; to supply the Defects, or amend what is amis, of the unwritten Law.

8.

In order to moderate the Rigor of both the unwritten and written Law, in Matters of private Right, it is the Office of Equity to interpose.

CHAP. III.

Of the Countries subject to the Laws of England.

t.

THE Laws of ENGLAND are not received in their full Extent in any other Territories, besides the Kingdom of ENGLAND, and the Dominion of Wales; which have, in most respects, an entire Communion of Laws.

á.

SCOTLAND, notwithstanding the Union, retains it's own municipal Laws; though subject to Regulation by the BRITISH Parliament.

3.

BERWICK is subject to the Scots Law, but bound by all Acts of Parliament.

4.

IRELAND is a distinct subordinate Kingdom, governed by the common Law of England; but not bound by modern Acts of the British Parliament, unless particularly named.

5.

The Isle of Man, the Norman Isles, (as Guernsey, &c,) and our Plantations abroad, are governed by their own Laws; but are bound by Acts of the British Parliament, if specially named therein.

6.

The Territory of ENGLAND is divided, EccLESIASTICALLY, into Provinces, Dioceses, Archdeaconries, rural Deanries, and Parishes.

7.

The CIVIL Division is, first, into Counties, of which some are palatine; then, sometimes, into Rapes, Lathes, or Trithings; next into Hundreds, or Wapentakes; and, lastly, into Towns, Vills, or Tithings.

CHAP. IV.

Of the OBJECTS of the LAWS of ENGLAND; and, first, of the ABSOLUTE RIGHTS of In-DIVIDUALS.

I.

THE Objects of the Laws of England are,
1. RIGHTS. 2. WRONGS.

2.

RIGHTS are the Rights of PERSONS, or the Rights of THINGS.

3.

The Rights of Persons are such as concern, and are annexed to, the Persons of Men: And, when the Person to whom they are due is regarded, they are called (simply) Rights; but, when we consider the Person from whom they are due, they are then denominated Duties.

4.

PERSONS are either NATURAL, that is, such as they are formed by Nature; or ARTIFICIAL, that is, created by human Policy, as Bodies politic or CORPORATIONS.

5.

The Rights of NATURAL Persons are, 1. ABSO-LUTE, or such as belong to Individuals. 2. RELA-TIVE, or such as regard Members of Society.

6.

The ABSOLUTE RIGHTS of INDIVIDUALS, regarded by the municipal Laws, (which pay no Attention to DUTIES of the absolute Kind) compose what is called political or civil LIBERTY.

7.

Political or civil LIBERTY is the natural Liberty of Mankind, so far restrained by human Laws as is necessary for the Good of Society.

8.

The absolute Rights, or civil Liberties, of Englishmen, as frequently declared in Parliament, are principally three; the Right of Personal Security, of Personal Liberty, and of Private Property.

9.

The Right of PERSONAL SECURITY confifts in the legal Enjoyment of Life, Limb, Body, Health, and Reputation.

10.

The Right of PERSONAL LIBERTY confifts in the free Power of Loco-motion, without illegal Reftraint or Banishment.

II.

The Right of PRIVATE PROPERTY consists in every Man's free Use and Disposal of his own lawful Acquisitions, without Injury or illegal Diminution, 12.

Besides these three PRIMARY Rights, there are others which are SECONDARY and subordinate; viz. (to preserve the former from unlawful Attacks)

1. The Constitution and Power of Parliaments:
2. The Limitation of the King's Prerogative:—And, (to vindicate them when actually violated) 3. The regular Administration of public Justice: 4. The Right of Petitioning for Redress of Grievances:
5. The Right of Having and Using Arms for Self-Defence.

CHAP. V.

Of the Rights of Persons in Public Relations; and therein, first, of the Parlia-Ment.

I

THE RELATIONS OF Persons are, 1. Public.
2. PRIVATE. The Public Relations are those of Magistrates and People. Magistrates are supreme, or subordinate. And of supreme Magistrates, in England, the Parliament is the supreme legislative, the King the supreme executive.

2

PARLIAMENTS, in some Shape, are of as high Antiquity as the Saxon Government in this Island; and have subsisted, in their present Form, at least five hundred Years.

3

The Parliament is affembled by the King's Writs, and it's Sitting must not be intermitted above three Years.

A

It's constituent Parts are the King's Majesty, the Lords spiritual and temporal, and the Commons represented by their Members: Each of which Parts has a negative, or necessary, Voice in making Laws.

5.

With regard to the GENERAL Law of Parliament; —It's Power is absolute: Each House is the Judge

Judge of it's own Privileges: And all the Members of either House are entitled to the Privilege of Speech, of Person, of their Domestics, and of their Lands and Goods.

The PECULIAR Privileges of the Lords are to hunt in the King's Forests; to be attended by the Sages of the Law; to make Proxies; to enter Protests; and to regulate the Election of the sixteen Peers of North-Britain.

The PECULIAR Privileges of the Commons are to raise Taxes on the Subject; and to determine the Merits of their own Elections, with regard to the Qualifications of the Electors, and Elected, and the Proceedings at Elections themselves.

Bills are usually twice read in each House, committed, engroffed, and then read a third Time; and when they have obtained the Concurrence of both Houses, and received the royal Assent, they become AcTs of Parliament.

The Houses may adjourn themselves; but the King only can prorogue the Parliament.

Parliaments are diffolved, 1. At the King's Will. 2. By the Demise of the Crown, that is, within fix Months after. 3. By Length of Time, or having fate for the space of seven Years.

CHAP. VI.

Of the KING; and, first, of bis TITLE.

THE supreme EXECUTIVE Power of this Kingdom is lodged in a single Person; the King or QUEEN.

This royal Person may be considered with regard to, 1. His Title. 2. His Dignity. 3. His Duties. 4. His Councils. 5. His royal Family. 6. His Prerogative. 7. His Revenue.

3.

With regard to his TITLE; The Crown of ENGLAND, by the positive Constitution of the Kingdom, hath ever been descendible, and so continues.

4.

The Crown is descendible in a Course peculiar to itself.

5.

This Course of Descent is subject to Limitation by Parliament.

6.

Notwithstanding such Limitations, the Crown retains its descendible Quality, and becomes here-ditary in the Prince to whom it is limited.

King EGBERT, King CANUTE, and King WILLIAM I. have been fuccessively constituted the common Stocks, or Ancestors, of this Descent.

At the Revolution the Convention of Estates, or representative Body of the Nation, declared, that the Misconduct of King JAMES II. amounted to an Abdication of the Government, and that the Throne was thereby VACANT.

In consequence of this Vacancy, and from a Regard to the antient Line, the Convention appointed the next protestant Heirs of the Blood royal of King CHARLES I. to fill the vacant Throne, in the old Order of Succession; with a temporary Exception, or Preference, to the Person of King WILLIAM III.

On the impending Failure of the protestant Line of King CHARLES I. (whereby the Throne might again have become vacant) the King and Parliament extended the Settlement of the Crown to the protestant Line of King JAMES I. viz. to the Princess SOPHIA of HANOVER, and the Heirs of her Body, being Protestants: And She is now the common Stock, from whom the Heirs of the Crown must descend.

CHAP. VII.

Of the King's Dignity, Duties, Councils, and royal Family.

I.

THE KING'S DIGNITY consists, 1. In his perfonal Sovereignty. 2. In his absolute Perfection. 3. In his Perpetuity. 4. In his legal Ubiquity. 5. In that he is bound by no Statute, unless specially named. 6. In that his Deed is a public Record.

2.

The King's Duties are to govern his People according to Law, to execute Judgment in Mercy, and to maintain the established Religion. These are his Part of the original Contract between himself and the People; founded in the Nature of Society, and expressed in his Oath at the Coronation.

2.

The King's Councils are, 1. The Parliament.
2. The Peers. 3. The Judges. 4. The privy Council.

The King's royal Family are, 1. The Queen, either regnant, confort, or dowager. 2. The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the Princess royal.

3. The other Princes of the Blood.

CHAP. VIII.

Of the KING's PREROGATIVE.

REROGATIVE is that special Power and Preeminence, which the King hath above other Persons, and out of the ordinary Course of Law. in right of his regal Dignity.

Such PREROGATIVES are either DIRECT, OF IN-CIDENTAL. The INCIDENTAL, arising out of other Matters, are confidered as they arise: We now treat only of the DIRECT.

In PREROGATIVE confifts the executive Power of Government.

In FOREIGN Concerns; the King, as the Reprefentative of the Nation, has the Right or PRERO-GATIVE, 1. Of fending and receiving Embassadors. 2. Of making Treaties. 3. Of proclaiming War or Peace. 4. Of iffuing Reprifals. 5. Of granting Safe-Conducts.

In DOMESTIC Affairs; the KING is confidered as the General of the Kingdom, and may raise Fleets and Armies, build Forts, and confine his Subjects within the Realm, or recall them from foreign Parts.

The King is also the Fountain of Justice, and general Conservator of the Peace; and therefore may erect Courts, prosecute Offenders, pardon Crimes, and issue Proclamations.

7.

He is likewise the Fountain of Honour, of Office, and of Privilege.

8.

He is also the Arbiter of DOMESTIC Commerce; (not of FOREIGN, which is regulated by the Law of Merchants;) and is therefore entitled to the Erection of public Marts, the Regulation of Weights and Measures, and the Coinage or Legitimation of Money.

Q.

The King is, lastly, the supreme Head of the Church; and, as such, regulates Synods, nominates Bishops, and receives Appeals in all ecclesiastical Causes.

CHAP. IX.

Of the King's ORDINARY REVENUE.

i.

THE KING'S REVENUE is either ORDINARY or EXTRAORDINARY. And the ORDINARY is, 1. Ecclesiastical. 2. Temporal.

2.

The KING'S ECCLESIASTICAL Revenue confifts in, 1. The Custody of the Temporalties of vacant Bishopricks. 2. Corodies and Pensions. 3. Extraparochial Tithes. 4. The first Fruits and Tenths of Benefices.

3.

The King's ordinary TEMPORAL Revenue confifts in, 1. The demesne Lands of the Crown.

2. The hereditary Excise; being Part of the Consideration for the Purchase of his feodal Profits, and the Prerogatives of Purveyance and Pre-emption.

3. An annual Sum issuing from the Duty on Wine Licences; being the Residue of the same Consideration.

4. His Forests.

5. His Courts of Justice.

6. Royal Fish.

7. Wrecks, and Things jetsam, slotsam, and ligan.

8. Royal Mines.

9. Treasure trove.

10. Waiss.

11. Estrays.

12. Forseitures for Offences, and Deodands.

13. Escheats of Lands.

14. The Custody of Ideots and Lunatics.

CHAP. X.

Of the King's extraordinary Revenue.

I.

THE KING'S EXTRAORDINARY REVENUE confifts in Aids, Subfidies, and Supplies, granted him by the Commons in Parliament.

2.

Heretofore these were usually raised by Grants of the (nominal) TENTH OF FIFTEENTH Part of the Moveables in every Township; or by Subsidies affessed upon Individuals, with respect to their Lands and Goods.

3.

A new System of Taxation took place soon after the Revolution: Our modern Taxes are therefore, I. ANNUAL. 2. PERPETUAL.

4

The ANNUAL Taxes are, 1. The Land Tax, or the antient Subfidy raifed upon a new Affessment. 2. The Malt Tax, being an annual Excise on Malt, Mum, Cyder, and Perry.

5.

The PERPETUAL Taxes are, 1. The Customs, or Tonnage and Poundage of all Merchandize exported or imported. 2. The Excise Duty, or inland Imposition, on a great Variety of Commodities. 3. The Salt Duty, or Excise on Salt. 4. The Post Office, or Duty for the Carriage of Letters.

5. The Stamp Duty on Paper, Parchment, &c.

6. The Duty on Houses and Windows. 7. The Duty on Licences for hackney Coaches and Chairs,

8. The Duty on Offices and Pensions.

Part of this Revenue is applied to pay the Interest of the national Debt, till the Principal is discharged by Parliament,

7.

The Produce of these several Taxes were originally separate and specific Funds, to answer specific Loans upon their respective Credits; but are now consolidated by Parliament into three principal Funds, the AGGREGATE, GENERAL, and SOUTH-SEA Funds, to answer ALL the Debts of the Nation: the public Faith being also superadded, to supply Deficiencies, and strengthen the Security of the Whole,

8.

The Surplusses of these Funds, after paying the Interest of the national Debt, are carried together, and denominated the SINKING Fund: Which, unless otherwise appropriated by Parliament, is annually to be applied towards paying off some Part of the Principal.

9.

But, previous to this, the SINKING Fund is charged to make up the Deficiencies, if any, in the CIVIL LIST; which is the immediate proper Revenue of the Crown, fettled by Parliament on the King at his Accession, for defraying the Charges of civil Government.

CHAP. XI.

Of SUBORDINATE Magistrates.

I.

SUBORDINATE Magistrates, of the most general Use and Authority, are, 1. Sheriffs. 2. Coroners. 3. Justices of the Peace. 4. Constables. 5. Surveyors of the Highways. 6. Overseers of the Poor.

2.

The SHERIFF is the Keeper of each County, annually nominated in due Form by the King; and is (within his County) a Judge, a Conservator of the Peace, a ministerial Officer, and the King's Bailiff.

3.

CORONERS are permanent Officers of the Crown in each County, elected by the Freeholders; whose Office it is to make Enquiry concerning the Death of the King's Subjects, and certain Revenues of the Crown; and also, in particular Cases, to supply the Office of Sheriff.

4.

JUSTICES of the PEACE are Magistrates in each County, statutably qualified, and commissioned by the King's Majesty; with Authority to conserve the Peace; to hear and determine Felonies, and other Misdemesnors; and to do many other Acts, committed to their Charge by particular Statutes.

CONSTABLES are Officers of Hundreds and Townships, appointed at the Leet, and empowered to preserve the Peace, to keep Watch and Ward, and to apprehend Offenders.

Surveyors of the Highways are Officers appointed annually in every Parish; to remove Annovances in, and to direct the Reparation of, the public Roads.

OVERSEERS of the Poor are Officers appointed annually in every Parish; to relieve such impotent, and employ fuch flurdy Poor, as are SETTLED in each Parish, - by Birth; - by Parentage; - by Marriage; - or by forty Days Residence, accompanied with, 1. Notice. 2. Renting a Tenement of ten Pounds annual Value. 3. Paying their affeffed Taxations. 4. Serving an annual Office. 5. Hiring and Service for a Year. 6. Apprenticeship. 7. Having a sufficient Estate in the Parish.

CHAP. XII.

Of the PEOPLE, whether ALIENS, or NATIVES; and, among the latter, first of the CLERGY.

THE PEOPLE are either ALIENS, that is, born out of the Dominions, or Allegiance, of the Crown of GREAT BRITAIN; or NATIVES, that is, born within it.

Allegiance is the Duty of all Subjects; being the reciprocal Tie of the People to the Prince, in return for the Protection he affords them; and, in Na-TIVES, this Duty of Allegiance is natural and perpetual; in ALIENS, is local and temporary only.

The Rights of NATIVES are also natural and perpetual; those of ALIENS local and temporary only; unless they be made Denizens by the King, or naturalized by Parliament.

NATIVES are also either CLERGY, that is, all Persons in holy Orders, or in ecclesiastical Offices; or LAITY, which comprehends the rest of the Nation.

The CLERICAL Part of the Nation, thus defined, are, 1. Archbishops and Bishops. 2. Deans and Chapters. 3. Archdeacons. 4. Rural Deans. 5. Parsons,

5. Parsons, and Vicars; to whom there are generally requisite, holy Orders, Presentation, Institution, and Induction. 6. Curates. To which may be added, 7. Churchwardens. 8. Parish Clerks and Sextons.

CHAP. XIII.

Of the LAITY.

I.

THE LAITY are divisible into three States; civil, MILITARY, and MARITIME.

2.

The CIVIL State (which includes all the Nation, except the Clergy, the Army, and the Navy; and many Individuals among them also;) may be divided into the Nobility, and the Commonalty.

3.

The Nobility are Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons. These had antiently Duties annexed to their respective Honours: They are created either by Writ, that is, by Summons to Parliament; or by the King's Letters patent, that is, by royal Grant: And they enjoy many Privileges, exclusive of their senatorial Capacity.

The COMMONALTY consist of Knights of the Garter, Knights Bannerets, Baronets, Knights of the the Bath, Knights Bachelors, Esquires, Gentlemen, Yeomen, Tradesmen, Artificers, and Labourers.

5.

The MILITARY State, by the standing constitutional Law, consists of the Militia of each County, raised from among the People by Lot, officered by the principal Landholders, and commanded by the Lord Lieutenant.

6.

The more disciplined occasional Troops of the Kingdom are kept on foot only from Year to Year, by Parliament; and, during that Period, are governed by martial Law, or arbitrary Articles of War, formed at the Pleasure of the Crown.

7.

The MARITIME State consists of the Officers and Mariners of the BRITISH Navy; who are governed by express and permanent Laws, or the Articles of the Navy, established by Act of Parliament.

CHAP. XIV.

Of the PRIVATE RELATIONS of MASTER and SERVANT, and of HUSBAND and WIFE.

THE PRIVATE, oeconomical, RELATIONS of Persons are those of, I. MASTER and SER-VANT. 2. HUSBAND and WIFE. 3. PARENT and CHILD. 4. GUARDIAN and WARD.

The first Relation may subsist between a Mas-TER and four Species of SERVANTS; (for Slavery is unknown to our Laws:) viz. 1. Menial Servants; who are HIRED. 2. Apprentices; who are BOUND by Indentures. 3. Labourers; who are cafually EMPLOYED. 4. Stewards, Bailiffs, and Factors; who are rather in a MINISTERIAL State.

From this Relation refult divers Powers to the Master, and Emoluments to the Servant.

The Master hath a Property in the Service of his Servant; and must be answerable for such Acts as the Servant does by his express, or implied, Command.

The fecond private Relation is that of MAR-RIAGE; which includes the reciprocal Rights and Duties of HUSBAND and WIFE.

6. MAR-

MARRIAGE is duly contracted between Persons,

1. Consenting: 2. Free from canonical Impediments, which make it VOIDABLE: 3. Free also from the civil Impediments, — of prior Marriage; — of Want of Age; — of Non-Consent of Parents, &c., where requisite; — and of Want of Reason; either of which make it totally VOID. And it must be celebrated by a Clergyman, in due Form and Place.

Marriage is dissolved, 1. By Death. 2. By Divorce in the spiritual Court; not a Mensa & Toro only, but a Vinculo Matrimonii, for canonical Cause existing previous to the Contract. 3. By Act of Parliament; as, for Adultery.

8.

By Marriage the Husband and Wife become one Person in Law; which Unity is the principal Foundation of their respective Rights, Duties, and Disabilities.

CHAP. XV.

Of the PRIVATE RELATIONS of PARENT and CHILD, and of GUARDIAN and WARD.

THE third, and most universal, private Relation is that of PARENT and CHILD.

CHILDREN are, I. LEGITIMATE; being those who are born in lawful Wedlock, or within a competent time after. 2. BASTARDS, being those who are not so.

The Duties of Parents to LEGITIMATE Children are, 1. Maintenance. 2. Protection. 3. Education.

The Power of Parents confifts principally in Correction, and Confent to Marriage. Both may after Death be delegated by Will to a Guardian; and the former also, living the Parent, to a Tutor or Master.

The Duties of LEGITIMATE Children to Parents are Obedience, Protection, and Maintenance.

The Duty of Parents to BASTARDS is only that of Maintenance.

7. The 7.

The Rights of a BASTARD are such only as he can acquire; for he is incapable of inheriting any thing.

8.

The fourth private Relation is that of GUARDIAN and WARD, which is plainly derived from the last; these being, during the Continuance of their Relation, reciprocally subject to the same Rights and Duties.

GUARDIANS are of divers Sorts: 1. Guardians by Nature, or the Parents. 2. Guardians for Nurture, affigned by the ecclefiaftical Courts. 3. Guardians in Socage, affigned by the common Law. 4. Guardians by Statute, affigned by the Father's Will. All subject to the Superintendance of the Court of Chancery.

FULL AGE in Male or Female for all Purposes is the Age of twenty one Years; (different Ages being allowed for different Purposes;) till which Age the Person is an INFANT.

11

An INFANT, in respect of his tender Years, hath various Privileges, and various Disabilities, in Law: Chiefly with regard to Suits, Crimes, Estates, and Contracts.

CHAP. XVI.

Of Bodies politic, or CORPORATIONS.

ODIES politic, or CORPORATIONS, which are ARTIFICIAL Persons, are established for preferving in perpetual Succession certain Rights; which, being conferred on NATURAL Persons only, would fail in Process of Time.

Corporations are, I. AGGREGATE, confifting of many Members. 2. Sole, confifting of one Person only.

Corporations are also either SPIRITUAL, erected to perpetuate the Rights of the Church; or LAY. And the LAY are, I. CIVIL; erected for many temporal Purposes. 2. ELEEMOSYNARY; erected to perpetuate the Charity of the Founder.

Corporations are usually erected, and named, by virtue of the King's royal Charter,

The Powers incident to all Corporations are, 1. To maintain perpetual Succession. 2. To act in their corporate Capacity like an Individual. 3. To hold Lands, subject to the Statutes of Mortmain. 4. To have a common Seal. 5. To make By-Laws.

Which

Ch. 16. the LAWS of ENGLAND. 29

Which last Power, in spiritual, or eleemosynary Corporations, may be executed by the King or the Founder.

6.

The Duty of Corporations is to answer the Ends of their Institution.

7.

To enforce this Duty, all Corporations may be VISITED: Spiritual Corporations by the Ordinary; Lay Corporations by the Founder, or his Representatives; viz. the civil by the King (who is the Fundator incipiens of all) represented in his Court of King's Bench; the eleemosynary by the Endower (who is the Fundator perficiens of such) or by his Heirs or Assigns.

8.

Corporations may be dissolved, 1. By Act of Parliament. 2. By the natural Death of all their Members. 3. By Surrender of their Franchises. 4. By Forseiture of their Charter.

BOOK THE SECOND.

Of the RIGHTS of THINGS.

CHAPTER I.

Of Dominion over Things REAL; and, first of corporeal Hereditaments.

T.

A LL DOMINION over external Objects has it's Original from the Gift of the Creator to Man in general.

2

The Substance of Things was, at first, common to all Mankind; yet a temporary Property, in the Use of them, might even then be acquired, and continued, by Occupancy.

2.

In Process of Time a permanent Property was established in the Substance, as well as the Use, of Things; which was also originally acquired by Occupancy only.

4.

Lest this Property should determine by the Owner's Dereliction, or Death, whereby the Thing would again become common, Societies have established blished Conveyances, Wills, and Heirships, in order to continue the Property of the first Occupant: And, where by Accident such Property becomes discontinued or unknown, the Thing usually results to the Sovereign of the State, by virtue of the municipal Law.

5.

But of some Things, which are incapable of permanent substantial Dominion, there still subsists only the same transient usufructuary Property, which originally subsisted in all Things.

6.

In this PROPERTY, or exclusive Dominion, confift the RIGHTS of THINGS; which are, 1. Things REAL. 2. Things PERSONAL.

7.

In Things REAL may be considered, 1. Their feveral KINDS. 2. The TENURES, by which they may be holden. 3. The ESTATES, which may be acquired therein. 4. Their TITLE, or the Means of acquiring and losing them.

8.

All the several Kinds of Things real are reducible to one of these three, viz. Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments; whereof the second includes the first, and the third includes the first and second.

9.

HEREDITAMENTS therefore, or whatever may come to be inherited, (being the most comprehensive Denomination of Things real,) are either CORPOREAL.

H 2

Den

10.

CORPOREAL Hereditaments consist wholly of LANDS, in their largest legal Sense; wherein they include not only the Face of the Earth, but every other Object of Sense adjoining thereto, and subsisting either above or beneath it.

CHAP. II.

Of INCORPOREAL Hereditaments.

1.

INCORPOREAL Hereditaments are Rights iffuing out of Things corporeal, or concerning, or annexed to, or exercifible within, the same.

Incorporeal Hereditaments are, 1. Advowsons.
2. TITHES. 3. COMMONS. 4. WAYS. 5. OFFICES. 6. DIGNITIES. 7. FRANCHISES. 8. CoRODIES OF PENSIONS. 9. ANNUITIES. 10. RENTS.

3.

An Advowson is a Right of Presentation to an ecclesiastical Benefice; either appendant, or in gross. This may be, 1. Presentative, 2. Collative. 3. Donative.

4.

TITHES are the tenth Part of the Increase yearly arising from the Profits and Stock of Lands, and the the personal Industry of Mankind. These, by the antient and positive Law of the Land, are due of common Right to the Parson or Vicar; unless specially discharged, 1. By real Composition. 2. By Prescription, either de Modo decimandi, or de non decimando.

COMMON is a Profit which a Man hath in the Lands of another; being, 1. Common of Pafture; which is either appendant, appurtenant, because of Vicinage, or in gross. 2. Common of Piscary. 3. Common of Turbary. 4. Common of Estovers, or Botes.

6.

Ways are a Right of passing over another Man's Ground.

7.

Offices are the Right to exercise a public, or private, Employment,

8.

For DIGNITIES, which are Titles of Honour, see Book I. Ch. 13.

q.

FRANCHISES are a royal Privilege, or Branch of the King's Prerogative, subsisting in the Hands of a Subject.

10.

CORODIES are Allotments for one's Sustenance; which may be converted into Pensions. (See Book I. Ch. 9.)

11.

An Annuity is a yearly Sum of Money, charged upon the Person, and not upon the Lands, of the Grantor.

12.

RENTS are a certain Profit issuing yearly out of Lands and Tenements; and are reducible to, 1. Rent-service. 2. Rent-charge. 3. Rent-seck.

CHAP. III.

Of the ANTIENT TENURES of Things real.

I.

THE Doctrine of TENURES is derived from the FEODAL Law; which was planted in Europe by it's northern Conquerors, at the Diffolution of the ROMAN Empire.

2.

Pure and PROPER FEUDS were Parcels of Land, allotted by a Chief to his Followers; to be held on the Condition of personally rendering due military Service to their Lord.

3.

These were granted by Investiture; were held under the Bond of Fealty; were inheritable only by Descendants; and could not be transferred without the mutual Consent of the Lord and Vasal.

IMPROPER FEUDS were derived from the other; but differed from them in their Original, their Services and Renders, their Descent, and other Circumstances.

The Lands of ENGLAND were converted into FEUDS, of the improper Kind, foon after the NORMAN Conquest: Which gave Rife to the grand Maxim of Tenure; viz. That all Lands in the Kingdom are HOLDEN, mediately or immediately, of the King.

The Distinction of Tenures consisted in the Nature of their Services: As, 1. CHIVALRY, or KNIGHT-SERVICE; where the Service was free. but uncertain. 2. FREE SOCAGE; where the Service was free, and certain. 3. Pure VILLENAGE; where the Service was base, and uncertain. 4. PRI-VILEGED VILLENAGE, OF VILLEIN SOCAGE; where the Service was base, but certain.

The most universal antient Tenure was that in CHIVALRY, or by KNIGHT-SERVICE; in which the Tenant of every Knight's Fee was bound, if called upon, to attend his Lord to the Wars, This was granted by Livery, and perfected by Homage and Fealty; which usually drew after them Suit of Court.

The other Fruits and Consequences of the Tenure by Knight-Service were, 1. Aid. 2. Relief. 3. Pri-

GRAND SERJEANTY differed from Chivalry principally in it's Render, or Service; and not in it's Fruits and Consequences.

10.

The personal Service in Chivalry was at length gradually changed into pecuniary Assessments, which were called Scutage or Escuage.

II.

These military Tenures (except the Services of grand Serjeanty) were, at the Restoration of King Charles, totally abolished, and reduced to free Socage, by Act of Parliament,

CHAP. IV.

Of the MODERN TENURES of Things real.

I.

Free Socage is a Tenure by any free, certain, and determinate Service.

2.

This Tenure, the Relic of Saxon Liberty, includes PETIT SERJEANTY, Tenure in BURGAGE, and GAVELKIND.

2.

Free Socage Lands partake strongly of the feodal Nature, as well as those in Chivalry: Being holden; holden; subject to some Service, — at the least, to Fealty and Suit of Court; subject to Relief, to Wardship, and to Escheat, but not to Marriage; subject also formerly to Aids, primer Seisin, and Fines for Alienation.

4.

PURE VILLENAGE was a precarious and flavish Tenure, at the absolute Will of the Lord, upon uncertain Services of the basest Nature.

5

From hence, by tacit Consent or Encroachment, have arisen the modern Copyholds, or Tenure by Copy of Court Roll; in which Lands may be still held at the (nominal) Will of the Lord, (but regulated) according to the Custom of the Manor.

6

These are subject, like Socage Lands, to Services, Relief, and Escheat; and also to Heriots, Wardship, and Fines upon Descent and Alienation.

7.

PRIVILEGED VILLENAGE, OF VILLEIN SOCAGE, is an exalted Species of copyhold Tenure, upon base, but certain, Services; substisting only in the antient Demesnes of the Crown; whence the Tenure is denominated the Tenure in ANTIENT DEMESNE.

8.

These Copyholds, of antient Demesne, have divers Immunities annexed to their Tenure; but are still held by Copy of Court Roll, according to the Custom of the Manor, though not at the Will of the Lord.

9.

FRANKALMOIGN is a Tenure by spiritual Services at large; whereby many ecclesiastical and eleemosynary Corporations now hold their Lands and Tenements: Being of a Nature distinct from Tenure by divine Service in certain.

CHAP. V.

Of Estates, with respect to their QUANTITY of Interest; and, first, of Freeholds of Inheritance.

I.

ESTATES in Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, are such Interest as the Tenant hath therein; to ascertain which, may be considered, I. The QUANTITY of INTEREST. 2. The TIME of ENJOYMENT. 3. The NUMBER and CONNEXIONS of the TENANTS.

2.

Estates, with respect to their QUANTITY of IN-TEREST, or Duration, are either FREEHOLD, or LESS than FREEHOLD.

3.

A FREEHOLD Estate, in Lands, is such as is created by Livery of Seisin at common Law; or, in Tenements of an incorporeal Nature, by what is equivalent thereto.

4.

Freehold Estates are either Estates of INHERITANCE, or NOT of INHERITANCE, viz for LIFE only: And INHERITANCES are, I. AESOLUTE, OF FEE SIMPLE. 2. LIMITED FEES.

5.

Tenant in FEE SIMPLE is he that hath Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments, to hold to him and his Heirs for ever.

6.

LIMITED FEES are, 1. QUALIFIED, OF BASE, Fees. 2. Fees CONDITIONAL at the common Law.

7.

QUALIFIED, OF BASE, Fees are those which, having a Qualification subjoined thereto, are liable to be defeated when that Qualification is at an end.

8.

CONDITIONAL Fees, at the common Law, were fuch as were granted to the Donce, and the Heirs of his Body, in exclusion of collateral Heirs.

These were held to be Fees, granted on Condition that the Donee had Issue of his Body; which Condition being once performed by the Birth of Issue, the Donee might immediately aliene the Land: But, the Statute de Donis being made to prevent such Alienation, thereupon from the Division of the Fee (by Construction of this Statute) into a particular Estate and a Reversion, the conditional Fees began to be called Fees-TAIL.

All Tenenents real, or favouring of the Realty, are subject to Entails.

Of FREEHOLDS, NOT of INHERITANCE.

REEHOLDS, NOT OF INHERITANCE OF FOR LIFE only, are, I. Conventional, or created by the Act of the Parties. 2. LEGAL, or created by Operation of Law.

CONVENTIONAL Estates for LIFE are created by an express Grant for Term of one's own Life, or pur auter Vie; or by a general Grant, without expreffing any Term at all.

Incident to this, and all other Effates for Life, are Estovers, and Emblements: And to Estates pur auter Vie general Occupancy was also incident; as special Occupancy still is, if cestury que Vie survives the Tenant.

LEGAL Estates for LIFE are, 1. Tenancy in TAIL, after Possibility of Iffue extinct. 2. Tenancy by the CURTESY of ENGLAND. 3. Tenancy in Dower.

Tenancy in TAIL, after Possibility of Issue EXTINCT, is where an Estate is given in special Tail; and, before Issue had, a Person dies from whose Body the Issue was to spring; whereupon the Tenant 42 An ANALYSIS of Book II.

Tenant (if furviving) becomes Tenant in TAIL, after Possibility of Issue extinct.

6.

This Estate partakes both of the Incidents to an Estate tail, and those of an Estate for Life.

7.

Tenancyby the Curtesy of England is where a Man's Wife is seised of an Estate of Inheritance; and he by her has Issue, born alive, which was capable of inheriting her Estate; in which case he shall, upon her Death, hold the Tenements for his own Life, as Tenant by the Curtesy.

8.

Tenancy in Dower is where a Woman's Hufband is seised of an Estate of Inheritance, of which her Issue might by any Possibility have been Heir; and the Husband dies; the Woman is hereupon entitled to Dower, or one third Part of the Lands and Tenements, to hold for her natural Life.

9.

Dower is either by the common Law; by special Custom; ad Ostium Ecclesiae; or, ex Assensu Patris.

10.

Dower may be forfeited, or barred; particularly by an Estate in JOINTURE.

CHAP. VII.

Of Estates, LESS than FREEHOLD.

1.

E States LESS than FREEHOLD are, 1. Estates for YEARS. 2. Estates at WILL. 3. Estates at Sufferance. 4. Estates on Condition.

2.

An Estate for YEARS is where a Man, seised of Lands and Tenements, letteth them to another for a certain Period of Time, which transfers the Interest of the Term; and the Lessee enters thereon, which gives him Possession of the Term, but not legal Seisin of the Land.

3.

Incident to this Estate are Estovers; and also Emblements, if it determines before the full End of the Term.

4.

An Estate at WILL is where Lands are let by one Man to another, to hold at the Will of both Parties; and the Lessee enters thereon.

5.

COPYHOLDS are Estates held at the Will of the Lord, (regulated) according to the Custom of the Manor.

6.

An Estate at Sufferance is where one comes into into Possession of Land by lawful Title, but keeps it afterwards without any Title at all.

Estates on Condition, (which may, or may not, be freehold) are, i. On Condition IMPLIED.

- 2. On Condition EXPRESSED. 3. Estates in GAGE.
- 4. Estates by STATUTE, merchant or staple.
- 5. Estates by ELEGIT.

Estates on Condition IMPLIED are where a Grant of an Estate has, from it's Essence and Constitution, a Condition inseparably annexed to it; though none be expressed in Words.

Estates on Condition EXPRESSED are where an express Qualification or Provision is annexed to the Grant of an Estate: On the Breach or Nonperformance of which Conditions, either expressed or implied, the Estate so granted may be defeated.

Estates in GAGE, in Vadio, or in Pledge, are Estates granted as a Security for Money lent; being 1. In vivo Vadio, or LIVING GAGE; where the Profits of Land are granted till a Debt be paid, upon which Payment the Grantor's Estate will revive. 2. In mortuo Vadio, in DEAD, OF MORT GAGE; where an Estate is granted, on Condition to be void at a Day certain, if the Grantor then repays the Money borrowed; on Failure of which, the Estate becomes absolutely dead to the Grantor.

Estates by STATUTE merchant, or STATUTE staple, are also Estates conveyed to Creditors, in pursuance of certain Statutes, till their Profits shall discharge the Debt.

Estates by ELEGIT are where, in consequence of a judicial Writ fo called, Lands are delivered by the Sheriff to a Plaintiff, till their Profits shall fatisfy a Debt adjudged to be due by Law.

CHAP. VIII.

Of Estates, with respect to their TIME of ENJOYMENT.

States, with respect to their TIME of ENJOY-MENT, are either in immediate Possession, or in Expectancy: Which Estates in Expect-ANCY are created at the fame Time, and are Parcel of the same Estates, as those upon which they are expectant. These are, I. REMAINDERS. 2. RE-VERSIONS.

A REMAINDER is an Estate limited to take Effect, and be enjoyed, after another PARTICULAR Estate in Possession is determined.

Therefore, 1. There must be a precedent particular Estate, in order to support a Remainder. 2. The Remainder must pass out of the Grantor, at the Creation of the particular Estate. 3. The Remainder must vest in the Grantee, during the Continuance, or at the Determination, of the particular Effate.

Remainders are, 1. Vested; where the Estate is fixed to remain to a CERTAIN Person, after the particular Estate is spent. 2. Contingent; where the Estate is limited to take Effect, either to an un-CERTAIN Person, or upon an uncertain Event.

An executory Devise is fuch a Disposition of Lands, by Will, that no Estate shall vest thereby at the Death of the Devisor, but only upon some future Contingency; without any precedent particular Estate to support it.

A REVERSION is the Residue of an Estate left in the Grantor, to commence in Possession after the Determination of some PARTICULAR Estate granted: To which are incident Fealty, and Rent.

Where two Estates, the one less, the other greater, the one in Possession, the other in Expectancy, meet together in one and the same Person, and in one and the same Right, the less is MERGED in the greater.

CHAP. IX.

Of Estates, with respect to the Number and Connexions of the Tenants.

I.

EStates, with respect to the Number and Connexions of their Tenants, may be held, i. In Severalty. 2. In Jointenancy. 3. In Coparcenary. 4. In common.

2.

An Estate in SEVERALTY is where one Tenant holds it in his own sole Right, without any other Person being joined with him.

3.

An Estate in Jointenancy is where an Estate is granted to two or more Persons; in which Case the Law construes them to be Jointenants, unless the Words of the Grant expressly exclude such Construction.

4.

Jointenants have an Unity of Interest, of Title, of Time, and of Possession: They are seised per my & per tout; and therefore upon the Decease of one Jointenant, the whole Interest remains to the Survivor.

5

Jointenancy may be diffolved, by destroying one of it's four constituent Unities.

I 2

6. An

An Estate in COPARCENARY is where an Estate of Inheritance descends from the Ancestor to two or more Persons; who are called PARCENERS, and all together make but one Heir.

Parceners have an Unity of Interest, Title, and Possession; but are only seised per my, and not per tout: Wherefore there is no Survivorship among Parceners.

Incident to this Estate is the Law of HOTCHPOT.

Coparcenary may also be dissolved, by destroying any of it's three constituent Unities.

An Estate in common is where two or more Perfons hold Lands, possibly by distinct Titles, and for distinct Interests; but by Unity of Possession, because none knoweth his own Severalty.

Tenants in common have therefore an Unity of Possession, (without Survivorship; being seised per my, and not per tout;) but no necessary Unity of Title, Time, or Interest.

This Estate may be created, 1. by dissolving the constituent Unities of the two former; 2. by express Limitation in a Grant: And may be destroyed, 1. by uniting the feveral Titles in one Tenant; 2. by Partition of the Land.

CHAP.

CHAP. X.

Of the TITLE to Things real, with the Means of acquiring and losing it; and, first, of Descent.

I.

A TITLE to Things real is the Means whereby a Man cometh to the just Possession of his Property.

2.

Herein may be considered, 1. A mere or naked Possession. 2. The Right of Possession; which is, 1st, an apparent, 2dly, an actual, Right. 3. The mere Right of Propriety. 4. The Conjunction of actual Possession with both these Rights; which constitutes a perfect Title.

3.

The TITLE to Things real may be reciprocally acquired or loft, 1. By DESCENT. 2. By PURCHASE.

4.

DESCENT is the Means whereby a Man, on the Death of his Ancestor, acquires a Title to his Estate, in right of Representation, as his Heir at Law.

5.

To understand the Doctrine of Descents, we must form a clear Notion of Consanguinity; which is the Connexion, or Relation, of Persons descended from the same Stock or common Ancestor; and it is, I. LINEAL, where one of the Kinsmen is lineally descended from the other. 2. COLLATERAL, where they are lineally descended, not one from the other, but both from the same common Ancestor.

CHAP. XI.

Of the Rules of Descent, or legal CANONS of INHERITANCE.

THE Rules of Descent, or Canons of Inhe-RITANCE, observed by the Laws of Eng-LAND, are these b;

T.

Inheritances shall lineally DESCEND, to the Issue of the Person last actually seised, in infinitum; but shall never lineally ASCEND.

II.

The MALE Iffue shall be admitted before the FE-MALE.

III.

Where there are two or more Males in equal Degree, the ELDEST only shall inherit; but the Females ALL together.

IV.

The lineal Descendants, in infinitum, of any Person deceased shall REPRESENT their Ancestor; that is, stand in the same Place as the Person himself would have done, had he been living.

See APPENDIX, No. I. b See APPENDIX, No. II.

V. On

On Failure of LINEAL Descendants, or Issue, of the Person last seised, the Inheritance shall descend to his next collateral Kindred; that is, the Issue lineally derived from his next immediate Ancestor; subject to the three last, and to the three succeeding Rules.

VI.

Such next collateral Kindred must be of the BLOOD of the FIRST PURCHASOR.—To evidence which, the two following Rules are established.

VII.

The collateral Heir of the Person last seised must be his next Kinsman, of the whole Blood.

In collateral Inheritances, the MALE STOCKS shall be preferred to the FEMALE; that is, Kinsmen descending from the Blood of the male Ancestors shall be admitted before those from the Blood of the female: Unless where the Lands did, in fact, descend from a Female.

CHAP. XII.

Of Purchase in general; and therein of Occupancy, Prescription, and Escheat.

1.

PURCHASE, or Perquisition, is the Possession of an Estate, which a Man hath by his own Act or Agreement; and not by the mere Act of Law, or Descent from any of his Ancestors. This includes, 1. Occupancy. 2. Prescription. 3. Escheat. 4. Forfeiture. 5. Bankruptcy. 6. Alienation.

2.

Occupancy is Taking the Possession of those Things, which before had no Owner.

3.

PRESCRIPTION is a personal immemorial Usage of enjoying a Right, by a Man, and either his Ancestors, or those whose Estate he hath; of which the first is called prescribing in his Ancestors, the latter in a que Estate.

4.

ESCHEAT is where, upon Deficiency of the Tenant's INHERITABLE BLOOD, the Estate falls to the Lord of the Fee.

5.

INHERITABLE BLOOD is wanting to, 1. Monflers. 2. Bastards. 3. The maternal Relations in paternal Inheritances, and vice versa. 4. Kindred of the the half Blood. 5. Aliens, and their Issue. 6. Perfons attainted of Treason or Felony. 7. Papists, in respect of themselves only, by the statute Law.

CHAP. XIII.

Of FORFEITURE and BANKRUPTCY.

I.

PORFEITURE is a Punishment annexed by Law to fome illegal Act, or Negligence, of the Owner of Things real; whereby the Estate is transferred to another, who is usually the Party injured.

2.

Forfeitures are occasioned, 1. By CRIMES. 2. By ALIENATION, contrary to Law. 3. By LAPSE. 4. By SIMONY. 5. By Nonperformance of Conditions. 6. By Waste.

2.

Forfeitures for CRIMES, or Missemesnors, are for, 1. High Treason. 2. Misprision of Treason. 3. Petit Treason and Felony. 4. Outlawry. 5. Assaults on a Judge, and Batteries, sitting the Courts. 6. Praemunire. 7. Popish Recusancy, &c.

1.

ALIENATIONS, or Conveyances, which induce a Forfeiture, are, 1. Those in Mortmain, made to Corporations contrary to the statute Law. 2. Those made to Aliens. 3. Those made by particular Tenants, when larger than their Estates will warrant.

5.

LAPSE is a Forfeiture of the Right of Prefentation to a vacant Church, by Neglect of the Patron to prefent within fix calendar Months.

6.

Simony is the corrupt Presentation of any one to an ecclesiastical Benefice, whereby that Turn becomes forfeited to the Crown.

7.

For Forfeiture by Nonperformance of Conditions, fee Ch. 7.

8.

WASTE is a Spoil, or Destruction, in any corporeal Hereditaments, to the Prejudice of him that hath the Inheritance.

9.

COPYHOLD Estates may have also other Causes of Forseiture, according to the Custom of the Manor, 10.

BANKRUPTCY is the Act of becoming a BANK-RUPT; that is, a Trader who secretes himself, or does certain other Acts, tending to defraud his Creditors. (See Ch. 22.)

TT

By Bankruptcy all the Estates of the Bankrupt are transferred to the Assignees of his Commissioners, to be sold for the Benesit of his Creditors. de in ear ar an is the following Advertible

CHAP. XIV.

Of Alienation by common Assurances; and the General Nature of Deeds.

A LIENATION, Conveyance, or Purchase in it's more limited Sense, is a Means of transferring real Estates, wherein they are voluntarily resigned by one Man, and accepted by another.

This formerly could not be done by a Tenant, without LICENCE from his Lord; nor by a Lord, without ATTORNMENT of his Tenant.

All Persons are CAPABLE of purchasing; and all, that are in Possession of any Estates, are CAPABLE of conveying them: — Unless under peculiar Disabilities by Law.

Alienations are made by COMMON ASSURANCES; which are, 1. By DEED, or Matter in Pais. 2. By Matter of RECORD. 3. By special Custom. 4. By DEVISE.

In Affurances by DEED may be confidered, 1. It's GENERAL NATURE. 2. It's SEVERAL SPECIES.

6. A Deed,

6

A Deed, in GENERAL, is the folemn Act of the Parties; being, usually, a Writing sealed and delivered; and it may be, 1. A Deed indented, or Indenture. 2. A Deed poll.

7.

The Requisites of a Deed are, 1. Sufficient Parties, and proper Subject-Matter. 2. A good and sufficient Consideration. 3. Writing on Paper, or Parchment, duly stamped. 4. Legal and orderly Parts', (which are usually, 1st, the Premises; 2dly, the Habendum; 3dly, the Tenendum; 4thly, the Reddendum; 5thly, the Conditions; 6thly, the Warranty; 7thly, the Covenants; 8thly, the Conclusion, which includes the Date.) 5. Reading it, if desired. 6. Sealing, and, in many cases, Signing it also, 7, Delivery. 8. Attestation.

8.

A Deed may be AVOIDED, 1. By the Want of any of the Requisites before-mentioned. 2. By subsequent Matter; as, 1st, Rasure, or Alteration. 2dly, Defacing it's Seal. 3dly, Cancelling it. 4thly, Disagreement of those, whose Consent is necessary. 5thly, Judgment of a Court of Justice.

Of the SEVERAL SPECIES of DEEDS.

OF Deeds, some serve to convey real Property, some only to charge and discharge it.

Deeds which ferve to convey real Property, or Conveyances, are either by common Law, or by Statute. And, of Conveyances by common Law, fome are original or primary, others DERIVATIVE or fecondary.

ORIGINAL Conveyances are, I. FEOFFMENTS.

2. GIFTS. 3. GRANTS. 4. LEASES. 5. Exchanges. 6. Partitions. — Derivative are,

7. Releases. 8. Confirmations. 9. Surrenders. 10. Assignments. 11. Revocations.

A FEOFFMENT d is the Transfer of any CORPOREAL Hereditament to another, perfected by LIVERY of SEISIN, or Delivery of bodily Possession from the Feosffor to the Feosffee; without which no freehold Estate therein can be created at common Law.

A GIFT is properly the Conveyance of Lands in Tail.

& See APPENDIX, No. III.

6. A GRANT

6

A GRANT is the regular Method, by common Law, of conveying INCORPOREAL Hereditaments.

7.

A LEASE is the Demife, Granting, or Letting to Farm of any Tenement, usually for a less Term than the Lessor hath therein; yet sometimes possibly for a greater; according to the Regulations of the restraining and enabling Statutes.

8.

An Exchange is the mutual Conveyance of equal Interests, the one in Consideration of the other.

q.

A PARTITION is the Division of an Estate held in Jointenancy, in Coparcenary, or in common, between the respective Tenants; so that each may hold his distinct Part in Severalty.

10.

A RELEASE is the Discharge or Conveyance of a Man's Right, in Lands and Tenements, to another that hath some former Estate in Possession therein.

11.

A CONFIRMATION is the Conveyance of an Estate or Right in esse, whereby a voidable Estate is made fure, or a particular Estate is encreased.

12.

A SURRENDER is the Yielding up of an Estate for Life, or Years, to him that hath the immediate Remainder or Reversion; wherein the particular Estate may merge.

13

An Assignment is the Transfer, or Making over to another, of the whole Right one has in any Estate; but usually in a Lease, for Life or Years.

14.

A REVOCATION is the Execution of a Power, referved by the Grantor in a former Deed, of calling back the Estate granted. It differs from a Defeasance in that the Deed of Defeasance must be of the same Antiquity as the Grant, and that the Deed of Revocation may be subsequent.

15.

Conveyances by STATUTE depend much on the Doctrine of Uses and TRUSTS: Which are a Confidence reposed in the Terre-Tenant, or Tenant of the Land, that he shall permit the Profits to be enjoyed, according to the Directions of cestury que Use, or cestury que Trust.

16

The Statute of Uses, having transferred all Uses into actual Possession, (or, rather, having drawn the Possession to the Use) has given Birth to three other Species of Conveyance: 1. A COVENANT to stand seised to Uses. 2. A BARGAIN and SALE, enrolled. 3. A LEASE and RELEASE. Which owe their present Operation principally to the Statute of Uses.

e See Appendix, No. IV.

Deeds which do not convey, but only charge real Property, and discharge it, are, 1. Obligations f. 2. Recognizances. 3. Defeasances.

CHAP. XVI.

Of Assurances by Matter of RECORD.

I.

A SSURANCES by Matter of RECORD are where the Sanction of some Court of Record is called in, to substantiate and witness the Transfer of real Property. These are, 1. PRIVATE ACTS of PARLIAMENT. 2. The KING'S GRANTS. 3. FINES.
4. Common RECOVERIES.

PRIVATE ACTS of PARLIAMENT are a Species of Affurances, calculated to give (by the transcendent Authority of Parliament) such reasonable Powers or Relief, as are beyond the Reach of the ordinary Course of Law.

3

The King's Grants, contained in Charters or Letters patent, are all entered on Record, for the Dignity of the royal Person, and Security of the royal Revenue.

f See Appendix, No. V.

A FINE 8 (fometimes said to be a Feoffment of Record) is an amicable Composition and Agreement of an actual, or sictitious, Suit; whereby the Estate in question is acknowledged to be the Right of one of the Parties.

5.

The Parts of a Fine are, 1. The Writ of Covenant. 2. The Licence to agree. 3. The Concord. 4. The Note. 5. The Foot. To which the Statute hath added, 6. Proclamations.

6.

Fines are of four KINDS: 1. Sur Cognizance de Droit, come ceo que il ad de son Done. 2. Sur Cognizance de Droit tantum. 3. Sur Concessit. 4. Sur Done, Grant, et Render; which is a double Fine.

7

The Force and Effect of Fines (when levied by fuch as have themselves any Interest in the Estate) are to assure the Lands in question to the Cognizee, by barring the respective Rights of Parties, Privies, and Strangers.

8.

A common RECOVERY h is by an actual, or fictitious, Suit or Action for Land, brought against the Tenant of the Freehold; who thereupon vouches another, who undertakes to warrant the Tenant's Title: But, upon such Vouchee's making Default, the Land is RECOVERED by Judgment at Law against the Tenant; who, in return, obtains Judgment against g See APPINDIX, No. VI.

b See Apprindix, No. VII:

the Vouchee to recover Lands of equal Value in Recompense.

9.

The FORCE and EFFECT of a Recovery are to affure Lands to the Recoveror, by barring Estates tail, and all Remainders and Reversions expectant thereon; provided the Tenant in Tail either suffers, or is vouched in, such Recovery.

10.

The Uses of a Fine or Recovery may be directed by, 1. Deeds to LEAD such Uses; which are made previous to the Levying or Suffering them.
2. Deeds to DECLARE the Uses; which are made subsequent.

CHAP. XVII.

Of Assurance's by Special Custom, and Devise.

A SSURANCES by special Custom are confined to the Transfer of COPYHOLD Estates.

2.

This is effected by, 1. SURRENDER by the Tenant into the Hands of the Lord to the Use of another, according to the Custom of the Manor.

2. PRESENTMENT, by the Tenants or Homage, of surrender.

3. Admittance of the Surrendere deree by the Lord, according to the Uses expressed in such Surrender.

3.

ADMITTANCE may also be had upon original GRANTS to the Tenant from the Lord, and upon Descents to the Heir from the Ancestor.

4.

DEVISE is a Disposition of Lands and Tenements, contained in the last Will and Testament of the Owner.

5.

This was not permitted by the common Law, as it stood since the Conquest; but was introduced by the statute Law.

CHAP. XVIII.

Of THINGS PERSONAL, or CHATTELS; their DISTRIBUTION; and the PROPERTY which may be had therein.

t:

THINGS PERSONAL are comprehended under the general Name of CHATTELS; which include whatever wants either the Duration, or the Immobility, attending Things real.

2

In these are to be considered, 1. Their DISTRIBUTION. 2. The PROPERTY of them. 3. The TITLE to that Property.

K 2

3. As

3

As to the DISTRIBUTION of Chattels, they are,

1. Chattels REAL. 2. Chattels PERSONAL.

4.

Chattels REAL are such Quantities of Interest, in Things IMMOVEABLE, as are short of the Duration of Freeholds; being limited to a Time certain, beyond which they cannot subsist. (See Ch. 7.)

5.

Chattels PERSONAL are Things MOVEABLE; which may be transferred from Place to Place, together with the Person of the Owner.

6.

PROPERTY, in Chattels personal, is either in Possession, or in Action.

7.

Property in Possession, where a Man has the actual Enjoyment of the Thing, is, 1. ABSOLUTE.
2. QUALIFIED.

8.

ABSOLUTE Property is where a Man has fuch an exclusive Right in the Thing, that it cannot cease to be his, without his own Act or Default.

9.

QUALIFIED Property is fuch as is not, in it's Nature, permanent; but may fometimes fublish, and at other times not fublish.

10.

This may arife, 1. Where the Subject is incapable of absolute Ownership. 2. From the peculiar Circumstances of the Owners.

11. Pro-

II

Property in Action, is where a Man hath not the actual Occupation of the Thing; but only a Right to it, arifing upon some Contract, and recoverable by an Action at Law.

12.

The Property of Chattels personal is liable to Remainders, if created by Will; to Jointenancy; and to Tenancy in common.

CHAP. OXIX.

Of the TITLE to Things personal, or Chattels, by Occupancy, Prerogative, and Succession.

I.

THE TITLE to Things personal may be acquired or lost by, 1. Occupancy. 2. Prerogative. 3. Succession. 4. Custom. 5. Marriage. 6. Forfeiture. 7. Judgment. 8. Grant. 9. Contract. 10. Bankruptcy. 11. Testament. 12. Administration.

2.

Occupancy still gives the first Occupant a Right to those few Things, which have no legal Owner, or which are incapable of permanent Ownership.

3.

By Prerogative is vested in the Crown, or it's Grantees, the Property of the royal Revenue; (See Book I. Ch. 9, 10.) and also the Property of all K 3 Game

Game in the Kingdom, with the Right of pursuing and taking it.

By Succession the Right of Chattels is also vested in Corporations AGGREGATE; and likewise in such sole Corporations, as are the Heads and Representatives of Bodies aggregate.

CHAP. XX.

Of Custom, Marriage, Forfeiture, and Judgment.

I.

BY CUSTOM, obtaining in particular Places, a Right may be acquired in Chattels: The most usual of which Customs are those relating to, 1. HERIOTS. 2. MORTUARIES. 3. HEIR-LOOMS.

2.

HERIOTS are either Heriot-SERVICE, which differs little from a Rent; or Heriot-custom, which is a customary Tribute, of Goods and Chattels, payable to the Lord of the Fee on the Decease of the Owner of Lands.

3.

MORTUARIES are a customary Gift, due to the Minister in many Parishes, on the Death of his Parishioners.

Heir-Looms are such personal Chattels, as descend by special Custom to the Heir, along with the Inheritance of his Ancestor.

By MARRIAGE the Chattels personal of the Wife are vested in the Husband, in the same Degree of Property, and with the same Powers, as the Wife when sole had over them; provided he reduces them to Possession.

6.

The Wife also acquires, by MARRIAGE, a Property in her Paraphernalia.

7.

By FORFEITURE, for Crimes and Misdemesnors, the Rights of Goods and Chattels may be transferred from one Man to another; either in part, or totally.

8.

Total Forfeitures of Goods arise from, 1. Treafon, and Misprision thereof. 2. Felony. 3. Excusable Homicide. 4. Outlawry. 5. Flight. 6. Standing mute. 7. Atrocious Contempts. 8. Praemunire. 9. Pretended Prophecies. 10. Owling. 11. Residing abroad of Artificers. 12. Challenges to fight for Debts at Play.

9.

By JUDGMENT, consequent on a Suit at Law, a Man may, in some cases, not only RECOVER, but originally ACQUIRE, a Right to personal Property.

CHAP. XXI.

Of GRANTS and CONTRACTS.

I.

A GRANT, or GIFT, is a voluntary Conveyance of a Chattel personal in Possession, without any Consideration or Equivalent.

2.

A CONTRACT is an Agreement, upon sufficient Consideration, to do or not to do a particular Thing: And, by such Contract, any personal Property (either in Possession, or in Action) may be transferred.

3.

Contracts may be either express, or implied; — either executed, or executory.

4.

The Consideration of Contracts is, 1. A good Confideration. 2. A valuable Confideration.

5.

The most usual Species of personal Contracts are, 1. Sale or Exchange. 2. Bailment. 3. Hiring or Borrowing. 4. Debt.

6.

SALE OF EXCHANGE is a Transmutation of Property from one Man to another, in Consideration of some Recompense in Value.

7.

BAILMENT is the Delivery of Goods in Trust; upon a Contract, express or implied, that the Trust shall be faithfully performed by the Bailee.

8. HIRING

8

HIRING OF BORROWING is a Contract, whereby the Possession of Chattels is transferred for a particular Time, on Condition that the identical Goods (or, sometimes, their Value) be restored at the Time appointed; together with (in case of HIRING) a Stipend or Price for the Use.

9.

This Price, being calculated to answer the Hazard, as well as Inconvenience, of Lending, gives Birth to the Doctrine of Interest, or Usury, upon Loans; and, consequently, to the Doctrine of Insurance.

10.

DEBT is any Contract, whereby Money becomes due to the Creditor. This is, 1. A Debt of Record. 2. A Debt upon special Contract. 3. A Debt upon simple Contract; which last includes Paper Credit, or Bills of Exchange, and promissory Notes.

CHAP. XXII. Of BANKRUPTCY.

T.

BANKRUPTCY (as defined in Ch. 13.) is the Act of becoming a Bankrupt.

2.

Herein may be confidered. 1. Who may become a Bankrupt. 2. The Acts, whereby he may become come a Bankrupt, 3. The Proceedings on a Commission of Bankrupt, 4. How his Property is transferred thereby.

3.

Persons, of full Age, using the TRADE of Merchandize, by buying, and selling, and seeking their Livelyhood thereby, are liable to become Bankrupts; for Debts of a sufficient Amount.

4.

A Trader, who endeavours to avoid his Creditors, or evade their just Demands, by any of the Ways specified in the several Statutes of Bankruptcy, doth thereby commit an Act of Bankruptcy.

5.

The PROCEEDINGS on a Commission of Bankrupt, so far as they affect the Bankrupt himself, are principally by, 1. Petition. 2. Commission. 3. Declaration of Bankruptcy. 4. Choice of Assignees. 5. The Bankrupt's Surrender. 6. His Examination. 7. His Discovery. 8. His Certificate. 9. His Allowance. 10. His Indemnity.

6.

The Property of a Bankrupt's personal Estate is, immediately upon the Act of Bankruptcy, vested by Construction of Law in the Assignees: And they, when they have collected, distribute the whole by equal Dividends among all the Creditors.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of TESTAMENT, and ADMINISTRATION.

I.

Oncerning Testaments and Administrations, considered jointly, are to be observed, 1. Their Original and Antiquity. 2. Who may make a Testament. 3. It's Nature and Incidents. 4. What are Executors and Administrators. 5. Their Office and Duty.

2.

TESTAMENTS have subsisted in England immemorially; whereby the Deceased was at Liberty to dispose of his personal Estate, reserving antiently to his Wife and Children their REASONABLE PART of his Essects.

3.

The Goods of INTESTATES belonged antiently to the King; who granted them to the Prelates to be disposed in pious Uses: But, on their Abuse of this Trust in the times of Popery, the Legislature compelled them to delegate their Power to Administrators expressly provided by Law.

4.

ALL Persons may make a Testament, unless disabled by, 1. Want of Discretion. 2. Want of Freewill. 3. Criminal Conduct.

TESTAMENTS are the legal Declaration of a Man's Intentions, which he wills to be performed after his Death. These are, 1. Written. 2. Nuncupative.

6.

AN EXECUTOR is he, to whom a Man by his Will commits the Execution thereof.

7.

ADMINISTRATORS are, 1. Durante minore Aetate of an infant Executor or Administrator. 2. Cum Testamento annexo; when no Executor is named, or the Executor refuses to act. 3. General Administrators; in pursuance of the Statutes of Edward III. and Henry VIII.

8.

The Office and Duty of Executors, (and, in many points, of Administrators also,) are, 1. To bury the Deceased. 2. To prove the Will, or take out Administration. 3. To make an Inventory. 4. To collect the Goods and Chattels. 5. To pay Debts; observing the Rules of Priority. 6. To pay Legacies, either general or specific; if they be vested, and not lapsed. 7. To distribute the undevised Surplus, according to the Statute of Distributions.

BOOK THE THIRD.

Of PRIVATE WRONGS, or CIVIL INJURIES.

CHAPTER I.

Of CIVIL INJURIES; and their REDRESS, by the mere ACT of the PARTIES, or the mere OPERATION of LAW.

WRONGS are the Privation of RIGHT; and are,
1. PRIVATE. 2. PUBLIC.

PRIVATE WRONGS, or CIVIL INJURIES, are an Infringement, or Privation, of the civil Rights of Individuals, confidered as Individuals.

The REDRESS of civil Injuries is one principal Object of the Laws of England.

This REDRESS is effected, 1. By the mere Act of the Parties. 2. By the mere Operation of Law. 3. By Both together, or Suit in Courts.

REDRESS, by the mere Act of the PARTIES, is that which arises, 1. From the SOLE Act of the Party injured. 2. From the JOINT Act of all the Parties.

Of the first Sort are, 1. Self-Defence. 2. Recaption of Goods. 3. Entry on Lands and Tenements. 4. Abatement of Nusances. 5. Distress; for Rent, or for Damage. 6. Seising of Heriots, &c.

7.

Of the second Sort are, 1. Accord. 2. Arbitration.

8:

REDRESS, effected by the mere OPERATION of LAW, is, I. Where a Creditor is Executor or Administrator, and is thereupon allowed to retain his own Debt. 2. In the case of Remitter; where one, who has a GOOD Title to Lands, &c., comes into Possession by a BAD one, and is thereupon remitted to his antient good Title, which protects his illacquired Possession.

CHAP. II.

Of Courts in general; and, first, of the Public Courts of COMMON LAW and EQUITY.

T.

REDRESS, that is effected by the Act both of Law and of the Parties, is by Suit or Action in the Courts of Justice.

2.

Herein may be considered, 1. The Courts themfelves. 2. The Countrance of Wrongs, or Injuries, therein. And, of Courts, 1. Their Nature and Incidents. 2. Their several Species.

3.

A COURT is a Place wherein Justice is judicially administered, by Officers delegated by the Crown: Being either a Court of Record, or not of Record.

4.

INCIDENT to all Courts are a Plaintiff, Defendant, and Judge: And, with us, there are also usually Attorneys; and Advocates or Counsel, viz. either Barristers, or Serjeants at Law.

5.

Courts of Justice, with regard to their several Species, are, 1. Of a public, or general, Jurisdiction throughout the Realm. 2. Of a PRIVATE, or special, Jurisdiction.

Public Courts of Justice are, 1. The Courts of common Law and Equity. 2. The ecclesiastical Courts. 3. The military Courts. 4. The maritime Courts.

7.

The general and public Courts of COMMON LAW and Equity are, 1. The Court of Piepoudre.

2. The Court-Baron. 3. The Hundred Court.

4. The County Court. 5. The Court of common Pleas. 6. The Court of King's Bench. 7. The Court of Exchequer. 8. The Court of Chancery. (Which two last are Courts of Equity as well as Law.) 9. The Courts of Exchequer-Chamber.

10. The House of Peers. To which may be added, as Auxiliaries, 11. The Courts of Assis and Nisi prius.

CHAP. III.

Of the Residue of PUBLIC Courts; and those also of a PRIVATE Jurisdiction.

I.

ECCLESTASTICAL Courts, (which were separated from the TEMPORAL by WILLIAM the Conqueror,) or Courts CHRISTIAN, are, I. The Court of the Archdeacon. 2. The Court of the Bishop's Consistory. 3. The Court of Arches. 4. The Court of Peculiars. 5. The Prerogative Court. 6. The Court of Delegates. 7. The Court of Review.

2.

The only permanent MILITARY Court is that of Chivalry; the Courts martial, annually established by Act of Parliament, being only temporary.

3.

MARITIME Courts are, 1. The Court of Admiralty. 2. The Court of Delegates. 3. The Lords of the Privy Council, and others, authorized by the King's Commission, for Prize-Causes.

4.

Courts of a PRIVATE or special Jurisdiction are,

1. The Forest Courts; including the Courts of Attachments, Regard, Sweinmote, and Justice-Seat.

2. The Court of Commissioners of Sewers.

3. The Court of the Marshalsea and the Palace Court.

4. The Courts of the Principality of Wales.

6. The Courts of the Counties palatine, and other royal Franchises. 7. The Stannary Courts. 8. The Courts of London, and other Corporations:—To which may be referred the Courts of Requests, or Courts of Conscience; and the modern Regulations of certain Courts Baron and County Courts. 9. The Courts of the two Universities.

CHAP. IV.

Of the COGNIZANCE of civil Injuries.

I.

A LL civil Injuries are COGNIZABLE either in the Courts ECCLESIASTICAL, MILITARY, MARITIME, or those of COMMON LAW.

2.

Injuries cognizable in the ECCLESIASTICAL Courts are, I. PECUNIARY. 2. MATRIMONIAL. 3. TESTAMENTARY.

PECUNIARY Injuries, here cognizable, are, 1. Subtraction of Tithes. For which the Remedy is by Suit to compel their Payment, or an Equivalent; and also their double Value. 2. Non-payment of ecclesiastical Dues. Remedy: By Suit for Payment. 3. Spoliation. Remedy: By Suit for Restitution. 4. DILAPIDATIONS, &c. Remedy: By Suit for Damages.

MATRIMONIAL Injuries are, 1. JACTITATION of MARRIAGE. Remedy: By Suit for perpetual Silence. 2. Subtraction of conjugal Rights. Remedy: By Suit for Restitution. 3. Inhability for the Marriage State. Remedy: By Suit for Divorce. 4. Refusal of decent Maintenance to the Wife. Remedy: By Suit for Alimony.

TESTAMENTARY Injuries are, 1. DISPUTING the Validity of WILLS. Remedy: By Suit to establish them. 2. Obstructing of Administrations. Remedy: By Suit for the Granting them. 3. Subtraction of Legacies. Remedy: By Suit for the Payment.

6.

The Course of Proceedings herein is much conformed to the civil and canon Law: But their only compulsive Process is that of Excommunication.

7.

Civil Injuries, cognizable in the Court MILITA-RY, or Court of Chivalry, are, 1. Injuries in point of Honour. Remedy: By Suit for honourable Amends. 2. Encroachments in Coat-Armour, &c. Remedy: By Suit to remove them. The Proceedings are in a summary Method.

8.

Civil Injuries, cognizable in the Courts MARI-TIME, are Injuries, in their Nature of common Law Cognizance, but arifing wholly upon the Sea, and not within the Precincts of any County. The Proceedings are herein also much conformed to the civil Law.

L 2 ceedings

9.

All other Injuries are cognizable only in the Courts of COMMON LAW: of which in the Remainder of this Book.

10.

Two of them are however commissible by these, and other, inferior Courts; viz. I. Refusal, or Neglect, of Justice. Remedies: By Writ of Procedendo, or Mandamus. 2. Encroachment of Jurisdiction. Remedy: By Writ of Prohibition.

CHAP. V.

Of Injuries, and their Remedies, at the COMMON LAW; and, first, of Injuries to the Rights of Persons.

Í

IN treating of the Cognizance of Injuries by the Courts of COMMON Law, may be confidered, I. The INJURIES themselves, and their respective REMEDIES. 2. The PURSUIT of those Remedies in the several Courts.

2.

INJURIES, cognizable by the Courts of common Law, are in general REMEDIED by putting the Party injured into Possession of that Right, whereof he is unjustly deprived.

3. This

This is effected, 1. By DELIVERY of the THING detained to the rightful Owner. 2. Where that Remedy is either impossible or inadequate, by giving the Party injured a SATISFACTION in DAMAGES.

4.

The Instruments, by which these Remedies may be obtained, are Suits or Actions; which are defined to be the legal Demand of one's Right: And these are, 1. Personal. 2. Real. 3. Mixed.

5.

Injuries (whereof some are with, others without, FORCE) are, 1. Injuries to the Rights of PERSONS.

2. Injuries to the Rights of PROPERTY. And the former are, 1. Injuries to the ABSOLUTE, 2. Injuries to the RELATIVE, Rights of Persons.

The ABSOLUTE Rights of Individuals are, 1. Personal Security. 2. Personal Liberty. 3. Private Property. (See Book I. Ch. 4.) To which the Injuries must be correspondent.

7.

Injuries to PERSONAL SECURITY are, 1. Against a Man's LIFE. 2. Against his Body. 3. Against his HEALTH. 4. Against his REPUTATION.——
The first must be referred to the next Book.

8,

Injuries to the Body are, 1. THREATS. 2. Assault. 3. Battery. 4. Mayhem. Remedy: By Action of Trespass, vi & armis; for Damages.

CHAP. VI.

Of Injuries to PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Njuries to the Rights of PROPERTY are either to those of PERSONAL, OF REAL, Property.

2.

Personal Property is either in Possession, or in Action.

3.

Injuries to personal Property in Possession are, 1. By Dispossession. 2. By Damage, while the Owner remains in Possession, Dispossession may be effected, 1. By an unlawful Taking. 2. By an unlawful Detaining.

5.

For the unlawful TAKING of Goods and Chattels personal, the Remedy is, 1. Actual Restitution; which is obtained by Action of Replevin. 2. Satisfaction in Damages; by Action of Trespass, or Trover.

6.

For the unlawful DETAINING of Goods lawfully taken, the Remedy is also, 1. Actual Restitution; by Action of Replevin, or Detinue. 2. Satisfaction in Damages; by Action on the Case, for Trover and Conversion.

7.

For Damace to personal Property, while in the Owner's Possession, the Remedy is in Damages; by Action of Trespass vi & armis, or by Action of Trespass on the Case.

8.

Injuries to personal Property, in Action, arise by Breach of Contracts, 1. Express. 2. IMPLIED.

9.

Breaches of EXPRESS Contracts are, 1. By Non-PAYMENT of DEBTS. Remedy: 1st, Specific Payment; recoverable by Action of Debt. 2dly, Damages for Nonpayment; recoverable by Action on the Case. 2. By Nonperformance of Cove-NANTS. Remedy: By Action of Covenant, 1st, to recover Damages, in Covenants personal; 2dly, to compel Nonperformance of Promises, or Assumpsits. Remedy: By Action on the Case; for Damages.

10.

IMPLIED Contracts are such as arise, 1. From the Nature and Constitution of GOVERNMENT. 2. From REASON and the Construction of Law.

II.

Breaches of Contracts, implied in the Nature of GOVERNMENT, are by the NONPAYMENT of Money which the Laws have directed to be paid. Remedy: By Action of Debt; to compel the specific Payment; — or, sometimes, by Action on the Case; for Damages.

12.

Breaches of Contracts, implied in Reason and Construction of Law, are by the Nonperformance of legal presumptive Assumpsits: For which the Remedy is in Damages; by an Action on the Case, on the implied Assumpsits, 1. Of a Quantum meruit. 2. Of a Quantum valebat. 3. Of receiving Money to another's Use. 4. Of an Insimul computassent, on an Account stated; (the Remedy on an Account unstated being by Action of Account.) 5. Of performing one's Duty, in any Employment, with Integrity, Diligence, and Skill.

CHAP. VII.

Of Injuries to REAL Property; and, first, of DISPOSSESSION, or OUSTER, of the SUB-JECT from bis FREEHOLD.

I.

Njuries affecting REAL Property are, 1. Ouster.
2. TRESPASS. 3. NUSANCE. 4. WASTE.
5. SUBTRACTION. 6. DISTURBANCE.

2.

OUSTER is the Amotion of Possession; and is, I. Of a private Subject. 2. Of the King, and his Grantees. That of a Subject is, I. From FREEHOLDS. 2. From CHATTELS real.

3.

Ouster from Freeholds is effected by, 1. A-BATEMENT. 2. INTRUSION. 3. DISSEISIN. 4. DIS-CONTINUANCE. 5. DEFORCEMENT.

4.

ABATEMENT is the Entry of a Stranger, after the Death of the Ancestor, before the Heir.

5.

INTRUSION is the Entry of a Stranger, after a particular Estate of Freehold is determined, before him in Remainder or Reversion, 6.

DISSEISIN is a wrongful Putting out of him that is seised of the Freehold.

DISCONTINUANCE is where Tenant in Tail, or the Husband of Tenant in Fee, makes a larger Estate of the Land than the Law alloweth.

DEFORCEMENT is any other Detainer of the Freehold from him who hath the Property, but who never had the Possession.

9.

The universal Remedy for all these is Delivery of Possession; and, sometimes, Damages for the Detention. This is effected, 1. By mere ENTRY.

2. By Action Possessory. 3. By Writ of RIGHT.

10.

Mere ENTRY on Lands, by him who hath the apparent Right of Possession, will (if PEACEABLE) devest the mere Possession of a Wrongdoer. But FORCIBLE Entries are remedied by immediate Restitution, to be given by a Justice of the Peace.

IT.

Where the Wrongdoer hath not only mere Poffession, but also an APPARENT Right of Possession, this may be devested by him who hath the ACTUAL Right of Possessory Actions of Writ of Entry, or Assise.

12.

A Writ of ENTRY is a real Action, which disproves the Title of the Tenant, by shewing the unlawful Means, under which he gained or continues Possession. And it may be brought either against the Wrongdoer himself, or in the Degrees called the Per, the Per and Cui, and the Post.

An Assise is a real Action, which proves the Title of the Demandant, by shewing his own, or his Ancestor's, Possession. And it may be brought either to remedy Abatements; viz. the Assise of Mort d'ancestor, &c: Or to remedy recent Disseisins; viz. the Assise of novel Disseisin.

14

Where the Wrongdoer hath gained the actual Right of Possession, he who hath the Right of Property can only be remedied by a Writ of Right, or some Writ of a similar Nature. As, I. Where such Right of Possession is gained by the Discontinuance of Tenant in Tail. Remedy, for the Right of Property: By Writ of Formedon.

2. Where gained by Recovery in a possessory Action, had against Tenants of particular Estates by their own Default. Remedy: By Writ of Quod ei deforciat.

3. Where gained by Recovery in a possessory in the Merits.—4. Where gained by the Statute of Limitations.—Remedy, in both Cases: By a mere Writ of Right, the highest Writ in the Law.

CHAP. VIII.

Of the remaining Species of OUSTER.

I.

Ouster of a Subject from Chattels real is, 1. From Estates by Statute and Elegit. 2. From an Estate for Years.

2.

Ouster, from Estates by STATUTE or ELEGIT, is effected by a Kind of Disselsin. Remedy: Restitution, and Damages; by Assis of novel Disselsin.

3.

Ouster, from an Estate for YEARS, is effected by a like Disselsin or Ejectment. Remedy: Restitution, and Damages; 1. By Writ of Ejestione Firmae. 2. By Writ of Quare ejecit infra Terminum.

4.

A Writ of Ejectione Firmae or Action of Trespass in Ejectment, lieth where Lands, &c, are let for a Term of Years, and the Lessee is ousted or ejected from his Term; in which Case he shall recover Possession of his Term, and Damages.

5.

This is now the usual Method of trying Titles to Land, instead of an Action real: viz. By, 1. The Claimant's making an actual (or supposed) Lease upon the Land to the Plaintiff. 2. The Plaintiff's actual (or supposed) Entry thereupon. 3. His actual (or supposed) Ouster and Ejectment by the Defendant.

fendant. For which Injury this Action is brought, either against the Tenant, or (more usually) against some casual, or sictitious, Ejector; in whose Stead the Tenant may be admitted Defendant, on condition that the Lease, Entry, and Ouster be confessed, and that nothing else be disputed but the Merits of the Title, claimed by the Lessor of the Plaintiff*.

A Writ of Quare ejecit infra Terminum is an Action of a fimilar Nature; only not brought against the Wrongdoer or Ejector himself, but such as are in Possession under his Title.

7.

Oufter of the King, or his Grantees, is, 1. That of a Nature similar to the former, but differing in the Means of it's Remedy; which is, Delivery of Possession, in consequence of an Inquest of Office: Which Process extends also to Chattels personal. 2. Usurpation of Offices and Franchises. Remedy: By Writ of Quo Warranto; to seife them into the King's Hands: Or, by Information in nature of such Writ; to oust the Usurper. 3. Refusal to admit, or wrongful Removal of, an Officer. Remedy: 1st. By Writ of Mandamus, unless Cause; to admit or restore him: To which if a false Cause be returned, the Remedy is by Action on the Case; for Damages. 2dly, By peremptory Mandamus.

& See APPENDIX, No. VIII.

CHAP. IX.

Of TRESPASS, NUSANCE, and WASTE.

I.

TRESPASS is an Entry upon, and Damage done to, another's Lands, by one's felf, or one's Cattel; without any lawful Authority, or Cause of Justification: Which is called a Breach of his Close. Remedy: Damages; By Action of Trespass, quare Clausum fregit: Besides that of Distress, Damage feasant.

2.

Nusance, or Annoyance, is any thing that worketh Damage, or Inconvenience: And it is either a PUBLIC and COMMON Nusance, of which in the next Book; or, a PRIVATE Nusance, which is any thing done to the Hurt or Annoyance of, I. The corporeal, 2. The incorporeal, Hereditaments of another.

2.

The Remedies, for a private Nusance, (besides that of Abatement,) are, 1. Damages; by Action on the Case; (which also lies for special Prejudice by a public Nusance.) 2. Removal thereof, and Damages; by Assis of Nusance. 3. Like Removal, and Damages; by Writ of Quod permittat prosternere.

4.

Waste is a Spoil and Destruction in Lands and Tenements, to the Injury of him who hath, 1. A Right Right of Common in the Lands. 2. The Remainder or Reversion of the Inheritance.

5.

The Remedies, for a Commoner, are Restitution, and Damages; by Assis of Common: Or, Damages only; by Action on the Case.

6:

The Remedy, for him in Remainder, or Reverfion, is, 1. Preventive: by Writ of Estrepement at Law, or Injunction out of Chancery; to stay Waste. 2. Corrective: By Action of Waste; to recover the Place wasted, and Damages.

CHAP. X.

Of SUBTRACTION, and DISTURBANCE.

1.

SUBTRACTION is when one, who owes Services to another, withdraws or neglects to perform them. This may be, 1. Of Rents, and other Services, due by TENURE. 2. Of those due by Custom.

2.

For Subtraction of Rents and Services, due by Tenure, the Remedy is, 1. By Distress; to compel the Payment, or Performance. 2. By Action of Debt; to compel the Payment. 3. By Writ of Coffavit; — and 4. By Writ of Right fur Disclaimer; — to recover the Land itself:

For Subtraction of Services, due by Custom, the Remedy is, 1. By Writ of Secta ad Molendinum, Furnum, Torrale, &c; to compel the Performance, and recover Damages. 2. By Action on the Case; for Damages only.

DISTURBANCE is the Hindering, or Disquieting, the Owners of an incorporeal Hereditament, in their regular and lawful Enjoyment of it.

5.

Disturbances are, 1. Of FRANCHISES. 2. Of COMMONS. 3. Of WAYS. 4. Of TENURE. 5. Of PATRONAGE.

6.

Disturbance, of FRANCHISES, is remedied by a special Action on the Case, for Damages.

7.

Disturbance, of Common, is, I. Intercommoning without Right. Remedy: Damages; by an Action on the Case, or of Trespass: Besides Distress, Damage seasant; to compel Satisfaction.

2. Surcharding the Common. Remedies: Distress, Damage seasant; to compel Satisfaction: Action on the Case; for Damages: Or, Writ of Admeasurement of Pasture; to apportion the Common; — and Writ de secunda Superoneratione; for the supernumerary Cattel, and Damages.

3. Enclosure, or Obstruction. Remedies: Restitution of the Common, and Damages; by Assise of novel Dissessin, and by Writ of Quod permittat: Or, Damages only; by Action on the Case.

8.

Disturbance, of Ways, is the Obstruction, 1. Of a Way in gross, by the Owner of the Land. 2. Of a Way appendant, by a Stranger. Remedy, forboth: Damages; by Action on the Case.

9.

Disturbance, of TENURE, by driving away Tenants, is remedied by a special Action on the Case; for Damages.

10.

Disturbance, of PATRONAGE, is the Hindrance of a Patron to present his Clerk to a Benefice; whereof Usurpation, within six Months, is now become a Species.

11.

Disturbers may be, 1. The Pseudo-Patron, by his wrongful Presentation. 2. His Clerk, by demanding Institution. 3. The Ordinary, by refusing the Clerk of the true Patron.

12.

The Remedies are, 1. By Affife of darrein Prefentment; 2. By Writ of Quare impedit; — to compel Institution and recover Damages: Consequent to which are the Writs of Quare incumbravit, and Quare non admissit; for subsequent Damages. 3. By Writ of Right of Advowson; to compel Institution, or establish the permanent Right.

CHAP. XI.

Of the Pursuit of Remedies, by Action in the Courts of COMMON LAW; and first, of Original, and Process.

İ.

THE PURSUIT of the several Remedies, furnished by the Laws of England, is, 1. By Action in the Courts of COMMON LAW. 2. By Proceedings in the Courts of Equity.

2.

Of an Action in the Court of common Pleas (the proper Court for profecuting civil Suits) the orderly Parts are, 1. The original Writ. 2. The Process. 3. The Pleadings. 4. The Demurrer, or Issue. 5. The Trial. 6. The Judgment. 7. The Appeal. 8. The Execution.

3.

The ORIGINAL Writ is the Beginning or Foundation of a Suit, and is either a Praecipe, where something in certain is demanded; or a Si fecerit te securum, where nothing is demanded in certain, but only a Satisfaction in general: Both issuing out of Chancery under the King's great Seal, and returnable in Bank during Term-time.

1 See APPENDIX, No. IX. S. I. # See APPENDIX, No. VIII. S. I.

Process is the Means of compelling the Defendant to appear in Court; and it includes, 1. Summons, and the subsequent judicial Writs of Attachment (which is sometimes the first or original Process) and Distringas, or Distress infinite. 2. The Writs of Capias ad respondendum, and Testatam Capias; which are mesne Process: (Or, instead of these, in the King's Bench, the Bill of Middlesex, and Writ of Latitat:

— and, in the Exchequer, the Writ of Quo minus.)
3. The alias and pluries Writs. 4. The Exigent, or Writ of Exigi facias, Proclamations, and Outlawry.
5. Appearance, and common Bail. 6. The Arrest.
7. Special Bail, first to the Sheriss, and then to the Action.

CHAP. XII.

Of PLEADINGS, DEMURRER, and Issue.

I.

Plaintiff and Defendant in Writing; under which are comprized, 1. The Declaration or Count; (wherein, incidentally, of the Vilne, Nonsuit, Retraxit, and Discontinuance.) 2. The Defence, Imparlance, View, Oyer, Aid, Voucher, or Age.
3. The Plea; which is either a DILATORY Plea, (1st, to the Jurisdiction; 2dly, in Disability of the Plaintiff; 3dly, in Abatement:) Or it is a Plea TO THE ACTION; fometimes confessing the Action, either in whole, or in part; (wherein of a Tender, and Set-off;) but usually denying the Complaint, by pleading, 1st, a special Bar; (wherein of Justifications, the Statutes of Limitation, &c;) or 2dly, the general Issue. 4. Replication, Rejoinder, Surrejoinder, Rebutter, Surrebutter, &c. Therein of Estoppels, Duplicity, Departure, Protestation, and other Incidents of Pleading.

Issue is where the Parties, in a Course of Pleading, come to a Point affirmed on one Side and denied on the other: Which, if it be a Matter of Law, is called a Demurrer ^p; if it be a Matter of Fact, ftill retains the Name of an Issue ^q, of Fact.

3.

CONTINUANCE is the Detaining of the Parties in Court from Time to Time, by giving them a Day certain to appear upon. And, if any new Matter arises since the last Continuance or Adjournment, the Defendant may take Advantage of it, even after Demurrer or Issue, by alleging it in a Plea puis darrein Continuance.

p See Appendix, No. IX. 5. 6. q See Appendix, No. VIII. 5.4. 7 See Appendix, No. VIII. 5.4. No. IX. 5. 6.

CHAP. XIII.

Of the Several Species of TRIAL.

I.

TRIAL is the Examination of the Point put in Issue.

2.

The Trial of an Issue of Law, or Demurrer, is by the Opinion of the Judges of the Court.

3.

The Trial of an Issue of Fact is, 1. By the Record. 2. By Inspection. 3. By Witnesses. 4. By Certificate. 5. By Wager of Battel, 6. By Wager of Law. 7. By Jury.

4.

Trial by the RECORD is had, when the Existence of such Record is the Point in Issue.

5.

Trial by INSPECTION is had by the Court, principally when the Matter in Issue is the evident Object of the Senses.

6.

Trial by WITNESSES (the regular Method in the civil Law) is only used on a Writ of Dower, when the Death of the Husband is in Issue.

7.

Trial by CERTIFICATE is had in those Cases, where such Certificate must have been conclusive to a Jury.

8. Trial

Trial by WAGER of BATTEL, in civil Cases, is only had on a Writ of Right: But, in lieu thereof, the Tenant may have, at his Option, the Trial by the GRAND ASSISE.

9.

Trial by WAGER of LAW is only had, where the Matter in Issue may be supposed to have been privily transacted, between the Parties themselves, without the Intervention of other Witnesses.

CHAP. XIV.

Of the Trial by JURY.

I.

TRial by Jury is, 1. EXTRAORDINARY; as, by the grand Affile, in Writs of Right; and by the grand Jury, in Writs of Attaint. 2. ORDINARY.

2.

The Method and Process of the ORDINARY Trial by Jury is, 1. The Writ of Venire facias to the Sheriff, Coroners, or Elisors; with the subsequent compulsive Process of Habeas Corpora, or Distringas. 2, The Carrying down of the Record to the Court of Nisi prius. 3. The Sheriff's Return; or Panel of, 1st, special, 2dly, common Jurors. 4. The Challenges; 1st, to the Array; 2dly, to the Polls of the Jurors; either, propter Honoris Respectum, propter Desectum, propter Affectum (which is sometimes a principal Challenge, sometimes to the Favour,) or, propter Delictum. 5. The Tales de circumstantibus. 6. The Oath of the Jury. 7. The Evidence; which is either by Proofs, 1st, written; 2dly, parol: — or, by the private Knowlege of the Jurors. 8. The Verdict; which may be, 1st, privy; 2dly, public; 3dly, special.

CHAP. XV.

Of JUDGMENT, APPEAL, and EXECUTION,

I.

W Hatever is transacted at the Trial, in the Court of Nisi prius, is added to the Record under the Name of a POSTEA: Consequent upon which is the JUDGMENT.

2.

JUDGMENT is the Sentence of Law, pronounced by the Court, upon the Matter contained in the Record.

3.

Judgment may be ARRESTED or stayed for Causes, 1. Extrinsic, or debors the Record. 2. Intrinsic, or within it.

See APPENDIX, No. VIII. §. 4.

Judgments are, 1. Interlocutory. 2. Final; which are either complete at first, or incomplete till perfected by a Writ of Enquiry.

5.

Costs, or Expenses of Suit, are now the necesfary Consequence of obtaining Judgment.

6.

Proceedings, in the Nature of APPEALS from Judgment, are, I. A Writ of ATTAINT; to impeach the Verdict of a Jury; which of late has been fuperfeded by new Trials. 2. A Writ of Audita Querela; to discharge a Judgment by Matter that has fince happened. 3. A Writ of Error, from one Court of Record to another; to correct Judgments, erroneous in point of Law, and not helped by the Statutes of Amendment and Jeofails.

7.

EXECUTION is the Putting in Force of the Sentence or Judgment of the Law: Which is effected, 1. Where Possession of the Thing itself is recovered; by Writ of Habere facias Seisinam, Possessionem, &c. 2. Where Money only is recovered; by Writ of, 1st, Capias ad Satisfaciendum*, against the Body of the Defendant; or, in default thereof, Scire facias against his Bail. 2dly, Fieri facias*, against his Goods and Chattels. 3dly, Levari facias, against his Goods, and the Profits of his Lands. 4thly, Elegit, against his Goods, and the Profits of his Lands.

w See Appendix, No. IX. 5. 6. wx See Appendix, No. IX. 5. 7.

his Lands. 5thly, Extendi facias, and other Process, on Statutes, Recognizances, &c, against his Body, Lands, and Goods.

CHAP. XVI.

Of Proceedings in the Courts of Equity.

I.

EQUITY, being the Correction of that wherein the Law (by reason of it's Universality) is deficient, should not therefore interfere where Relief may be had by the ordinary Course of Law.

2.

Aequitas sequitur Legem; and therefore Equity should never weaken the fundamental Rules of Property, established by the common Law.

2.

Suits in Equity, from the Variety of Circumstances therein considered, must necessarily be of longer Duration than Suits at the common Law.

4.

The Business of Equity is almost infinite; but is chiefly to give Relief in Matters of FRAUD, Accident, and TRUST; secundum Conscientiam, & Arbitrium boni Viri.

5.

The Proceedings in the Court of Chancery, (to which those in the Exchequer very nearly conform,) are, 1. Bill. 2. Writ of Subpoena; and perhaps, Injunction. 3. Process of Contempt; viz. (ordinarily) Attachment, Attachment with Proclamations, Commission of Rebellion, Serjeant at Arms, and Sequestration. 4. Appearance. 5. Demurrer. 6. Plea. 7. Answer. 8. Exceptions; Amendments; cross, or supplemental, Bills; Bills of Revivor, Interpleader, &c. 9. Replication. 10. Issue. 11. Depositions, taken upon Interrogatories; and subsequent Publication thereof. 12. Hearing. 13. Interlocutory Decree; feigned Issue, and Trial; Reference to the Master, and Report; &c. 14. Final Decree. 15. Rehearing, or Bill of Review, 16. Appeal to Parliament.

Ch. 16. the Laws of England. 103

BOOK THE FOURTH.

Of PUBLIC WRONGS, or CRIMES and MISDEMESNORS.

CHAPTER I.

Of the NATURE of CRIMES, and PUNISHMENTS.

I.

IN treating of PUBLIC WRONGS may be considered, I. The general NATURE of Crimes, and Punishments. 2. The Persons CAPABLE of committing Crimes, and their several DEGREES of Guilt.
3. The several Species of Crimes, and their respective Punishments. 4. The Means of PREVENTION. 5. The Method of Punishment.

A CRIME, or MISDEMESNOR, is an Act committed, or omitted, in Violation of a public Law, either forbidding or commanding it.

3.

Crimes are distinguished from civil Injuries, in that they are a Breach and Violation of the PUBLIC Rights, due to the whole Community, considered as a Community.

4. Punish-

PUNISHMENTS may be confidered with regard to,
1. The Power; 2. The End; 3. The MEASURE; — of their Infliction.

5.

The POWER, or Right, of inflicting human Punishments, for NATURAL Crimes, or such as are Mala in se, was by the Law of Nature vested in every Individual; but, by the fundamental Contract of Society, is now transferred to the sovereign Power: In which also is vested, by the same Contract, the Right of punishing Positive Offences, or such as are Mala probibita.

6.

The END of human Punishments is to prevent future Offences; 1. By amending the Offender himself. 2. By deterring others through his Example. 3. By depriving him of the Power to do future Mischief.

7.

The MEASURE of human Punishments must be determined by the Wisdom of the sovereign Power, and not by any uniform universal Rule: Though that Wisdom may be regulated, and affisted, by certain general, equitable, Principles.

CHAP. II.

Of the Persons CAPABLE of committing Crimes, and their several DEGREES of Guilt.

I.

A LL Persons are CAPABLE of committing Crimes, unless there be in them a DEFECT of WILL: For, to constitute a legal Crime, there must be both a vitious Will, and a vitious Act.

2.

The Will does not concur with the Act, 1. Where there is a Defect of UNDERSTANDING. 2. Where no Will is EXERTED. 3. Where the Act is constrained by Force and Violence.

A vitious Will may therefore be wanting, in the Cases of, 1. Infancy. 2. Ideocy, or Lunacy. 3. Drunkenness; which doth not, however, excuse. 4. Misfortune, or Chancemedley. 5. Ignorance, or Mistake of Fact. 6. Compulsion, or Necessity: which is, 1st, that of civil Subjection; 2dly, that of Duress per Minas; 3dly, that of choosing the least pernicious of two Evils, where one is unavoidable; 4thly, that of Want, or Hunger; which is no legitimate Excuse.

4

The King, from his Excellence and Dignity, is also incapable of doing Wrong.

The different DEGREES of Guilt in Criminals are, 1. As PRINCIPALS. 2. As ACCESSORIES.

6.

A PRINCIPAL in a Crime is, 1. He who commits the Fact. 2. He who is prefent at, aiding, and abetting, the Commission.

7.

An Accessory is he who doth not commit the Fact, nor is present at the Commission; but is in some fort concerned therein, either BEFORE or AFTER.

8.

Accessories can only be in petit Treason, and Felony: In high Treason, and Misdemessnors, all are Principals.

9.

An Accessory, BEFORE the Fact, is one who, being absent when the Crime is committed, hath procured, counselled, or commanded another to commit it.

IO.

An Acceffory, AFTER the Fact, is where a Perfon, knowing a Felony to have been committed, receives, relieves, comforts, or affifts the Felon. Such Accessory is usually entitled to the Benefit of Clergy; where the Principal, and Accessory BE-FORE the Fact, are excluded from it.

CHAP. III.

Of Offences against the DIVINE Law, and the Law of NATIONS.

Í.

Rimes and Misdemesnors, cognizable by the Laws of England, are such as more immediately offend, 1. The DIVINE Law. 2. The Law of NATIONS. 3. The MUNICIPAL LAW.

2.

Crimes, more immediately offending the DIVINE Law, are, I. Apostacy. For which the Penalty is Incapacity, and Imprisonment. 2. HERESY. Penalty, for one Species thereof: The same. 3. Offences against the established CHURCH: - Either, by REVILING it's Ordinances. Penalties: Fine: Deprivation; Imprisonment; Forfeiture. - Or, by Nonconformity to it's Worship: 1st, Through total IRRELIGION. Penalty: Fine. 2dly, Through protestant Dissenting. Penalty: Suspended by the Toleration Act. 3dly, Through POPERY, either in Professors of the popish Religion, popish Recufants convict, or popish Priests. Penalties: Incapacity; double Taxes; Imprisonment; Fines; Forfeitures; Abjuration of the Realm; Judgment of Felony, without Clergy; and Judgment of high Treason. 4. BLASPHEMY. Penalty: Fine, Imprifonment, and corporal Punishment. 5. Profane SWEARING

Ch. 3. the LAWS of ENGLAND. 109

SWEARING and CURSING. Penalty: Fine, or House of Correction. 6. WITCHCRAFT; or, at least, the Pretence thereto. Penalty: Imprisonment, and Pillory. 7. Religious IMPOSTURES. Penalty, Fine, Imprisonment, and corporal Punishment. 8. SABBATH-BREAKING. Penalty: Fine. 9. DRUNKENNESS. Penalty: Fine, or Stocks. 10. LEWDNESS. Penalties: Fine; Imprisonment; House of Correction.

3

Crimes against the Law of Nations, animadverted on by the Laws of England, are, 1. Violation of Safe-Conducts. 2. Infringement of the Rights of Embassadors. Penalty, in both: Arbitrary. 3. Piracy. Penalty: Judgment of Felony, without Clergy.

CHAP. IV.

Of Offences more especially against the KING, and bis Government; and, first, of HIGH TREASON.

Rimes, and Misdemesnors, more peculiarly of-I fending the MUNICIPAL Law, are those which especially affect, 1. The KING, and his Government. 2. The COMMONWEALTH. 3. INDIVIDUALS.

Offences, especially affecting the KING, and his Government, are, I. HIGH TREASON, 2. FELO-NIES injurious to the Prerogative. 2. PRAEMUNIRE. 4. Other Misprisions and Contempts.

HIGH TREASON may, according to the Statute of EDWARD III, be committed, 1. Of SUMMARY Convictions, and the first Stages of REGULAR Prosecutions.

I.

PROCEEDINGS in criminal Courts are, 1: Sum-

2.

SUMMARY Proceedings are such, whereby a Mari may be convicted of divers Offences, without any formal Process or Jury, at the Discretion of the Judge or Judges appointed by Act of Parliament.

2.

REGULAR Proceedings, in the Courts of common Law, are, I. ARREST. 2. COMMITMENT and BAIL. 3. PROSECUTION. 4. PROCESS. 5. ARRAIGNMENT, and it's Incidents. 6. PLEA and ISSUE. 7. TRIAL and CONVICTION. 8. CLERGY. 9. JUDGMENT, and it's Consequences. 10. Avoider of Judgment. 11. Execution.

4.

An Arrest is the Apprehending, or Restraining, of one's Person; in order to be forthcoming to answer a Crime, whereof one is accused or suspected.

E :

This may be done, 1. By Warrant. 2. By an Officer, without Warrant. 3. By a private Person, without Warrant. 4. By Hue and Cry.

0 6. Com-

COMMITMENT is the Confinement of one's Perfon in Prison, for safe Custody, by Warrant from proper Authority; unless, in bailable Offences, he puts in fufficient BAIL, or Security for his future Appearance.

PROSECUTION, or the Manner of accusing Offenders, is either by a previous Finding of a grand Jury, as, I. By PRESENTMENT. 2. By INDICT-MENT. Or, without fuch Finding, 3. By INFOR-4. By APPEAL. MATION.

A PRESENTMENT is the Notice taken by a grand Jury of any Offence, from their own Knowlege or Observation.

An Indictment, is a written Accusation of one or more Persons of a Crime or Misdemesnor, preferred to, and presented on Oath by, a grand Jury; expressing, with sufficient Certainty, the Person, Time, Place, and Offence.

An INFORMATION is, 1. At the Suit of the King and a Subject, upon penal Statutes. 2. At the Suit of the King only. Both differing from Indictments principally in this; that they are exhibited by the Informer, or the King's Officer; and not on the Oath of a grand Jury.

y See APPENDIX, No. X. S. I.

II.

An APPEAL is an Accusation, brought by one private Subject against another, of Larciny, Rape, Mayhem, Arson, or Homicide; which the King cannot discharge or pardon.

CHAP. XIII.

Of Process, ARRAIGNMENT, PLEA, and Issue.

I.

PROCESS to bring in an Offender, when indicted in his Absence, is, in Misdemesnors, by Venire facias, Distress infinite, and Capias; in capital Crimes, by Capias² only: and, in both, by Outlawry.

2.

ARRAIGNMENT is the Calling of the Prisoner to the Bar of the Court, to answer the Matter of the Indictment.

2

CHAP. XIV.

Of TRIAL, CONVICTION, and CLERGY.

RIALS of Offences, by the Laws of ENGLAND, were and are, 1. By the Corsned. 2. By Ordeal, of either Fire or Water. Both these have been long abolished. 3. By Battel, in Appeals and Approvements. 4. By the Peers of Great-Britain. 5. By Jury.

2

The Method and Process of Trial by Jury is, 1. The Impanelling of the Jury. 2. Challenges; 1st, for Cause; 2dly, peremptory. 3. Tales de circumstantibus. 4. The Oath of the Jury. 5. The Evidence. 6. The Verdict, either general or special.

& See APPENDIX, No. X. S. I.

Conviction is when the Prisoner pleads, or is found, guilty: Whereupon, in Felonies, the Profecutor is intitled to, 1. His Expenses. 2. Restitution of his Goods.

4.

CLERGY d, or the Benefit thereof, was originally derived from the usurped Jurisdiction of the popish Ecclesiastics; but hath since been new modelled by several Statutes,

5.

It is an Exemption of the Clergy from any other fecular Punishment for Felony, than Imprisonment for a Year, at the Court's Discretion; and it is extended likewise, absolutely, to lay Peers, for the first Offence; and to all lay Commoners, for the first Offence also, upon condition of Branding, Imprisonment, or Transportation.

6.

Divers Felonies are ousted of Clergy by particular Statutes.

7.

Felons, on receiving the Benefit of Clergy, (though they forfeit their Goods to the Crown,) are discharged of all clergyable Felonies before committed, and restored in all Capacities and Credits.

See APPENDIX, No. X. S. 1. d See APPENDIX, No. X. S. 2.

CHAP. XV.

Of JUDGMENT, Avoider thereof, and Execution.

I.

JUDGMENT (unless any Matter be offered in Arrest thereof) follows upon Conviction; being the Pronouncing of that Punishment which is expressly ordained by Law.

2.

ATTAINDER of a Criminal is the immediate Confequence, 1. Of having Judgment of Death pronounced upon him. 2. Of Outlawry for a capital Offence.

3.

The Consequences of Attainder are, 1. FORFEI-TURE to the King. 2. CORRUPTION of BLOOD.

4.

FORFEITURE to the King is, 1. Of real Estates, upon Attainder; — in high Treason, absolutely, till the Death of the Pretender, and his Sons; — in Felonies, for the King's Year, Day, and Waste. 2. Of personal Estates, upon Conviction; in all Treason, Misprisson of Treason, Felony, excusable Homicide, Standing mute upon Arraignment, atrocious Contempts of the King's Courts, and Flight.

. See APPENDIX, No. X. 6. 1, and 2.

CORRUPTION of BLOOD is an utter Extinction of all inheritable Quality therein: So that, after the King's Forfeiture is first satisfied, the Criminal's Lands escheat to the Lord of the Fee; and he can never afterwards inherit, be inherited, or have any Inheritance derived through him.

Judgments, and their Consequences, may be a-voided, 1. By falsifying, or reversing, the Attainder. 2. By Reprieve, or Pardon.

7.

Attainders may be FALSIFIED, OF REVERSED,

1. Without a Writ of Error; either for Faults in the Record, or for Matter debors the Record. 2. By Writ of Error; for Mistakes in the Judgment.
3. By Act of Parliament; for Favour.

8.

A REPRIEVE is a temporary Suspension of the Judgment, 1. Ex Arbitrio Judicis. 2. Ex Necessitate Legis; for Pregnancy, Insanity, or the Trial of Identity of Person.

9.

A PARDON is a permanent Avoider of the Judgment by the King's Majesty, in Offences against his Crown and Dignity; drawn in due Form of Law, allowed in open Court, and thereby making the Offender a new Man.

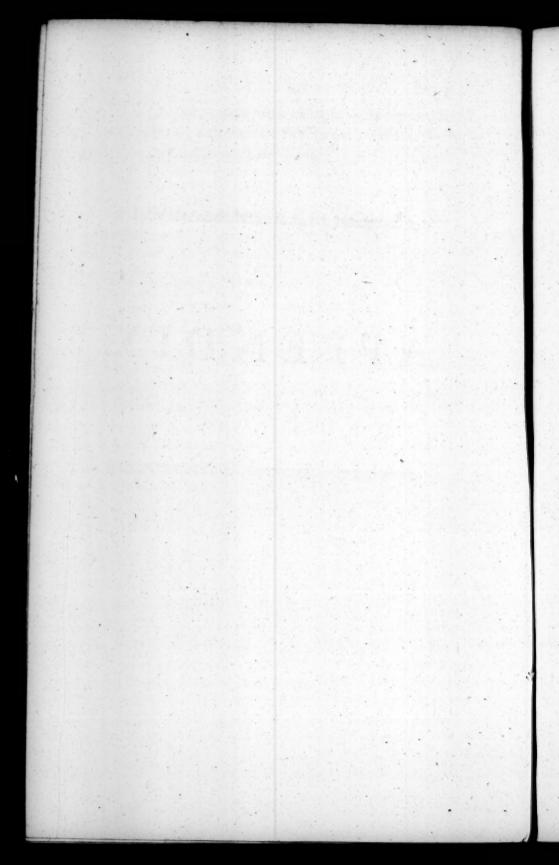

132 An ANALYSIS, &c. . Book IV.

EXECUTION is the Completion of human Punishment, and must be strictly performed in the Manner which the Law directs.

At which Day, to wit, on the Octave of the holy Trinity, here come as well the faid William Burton as the faid Charles Long, by their Attorneys aforefaid: And hereupon the faid William prays that the faid Charles may answer to his Writ and Count aforesaid. And the aforesaid Charles de-No fuch Award. fends the Force and Injury, when, &c, and faith, that the faid William ought not to have or maintain his faid Action against him, because he saith, that the said David Stiles and Henry Bacon, the Arbitrators before named in the faid Condition, did not make any fuch Award, Arbitrament, Order, Rule, Judgment, final End, or Determination, of or in the Premises above specified in the said Condition, on or before the first Day of January, in the Condition aforesaid above mentioned, according to the Form and Effect of the faid Condition: And this he is ready to verify. Wherefore he prays Judgment, whether the faid William ought to have or maintain his faid Action thereof against him; [and that he may go thereof without a Day.] 3nd the aforefaid William faith, that, for any thing above alleged by the faid Charles in Pleading, he ought not to be precluded from having his faid Action thereof against him; because he saith, that after the making of the faid Writing obligatory, and before the faid first Day of January, to wit, on the twenty fixth Day of December, in the Year aforesaid, at Banbury aforesaid, in the Presence of two credible Witnesses, namely, John Dew of Charlbury, in the County aforefaid, and Richard Morris of Wytham in the County of Berks, the faid Arbitrators undertook the Charge of the Award, Arbitrament, Order, Rule, Judgment, final End, and Determination aforefaid, of and in the Premises specified in the Condition aforesaid; and then and there made and published their Award by Word of Mouth in Manner and Form following, that is to fay; The faid Arbitrators did award, order, and adjudge, that he the faid Charles Long Should forthwith pay to the faid William Burton the Sum of feventy five Pounds, and that thereupon all Differences between them at the time of the making the faid Writing obligatory should finally cease and determine. And the faid William further faith, that although he afterwards, to wit on the fixth Day of January, in the Year of our Lord one thousand, seven hundred, and fifty five, at Banbury aforefaid, requested the faid Charles

Charles to pay to him the faid William the faid feventy five pounds, yet (by Protestation that the faid Charles hath not stood to, obeyed, observed, fulfilled, or kept any Protestando. part of the faid Award, which by him the faid Charles ought to have been stood to, obeyed, observed, fulfilled, and kept) for further Plea therein he faith, that the faid Charles the faid seventy five Pounds to the faid William hath not hitherto paid: And this he is ready to verify. Wherefore he prays Judgment, and his Debt aforesaid, together with his Damages occasioned by the Detention of the faid Debt, to be adjudged unto him, &c. 3nd the Demurrer. aforesaid Charles saith, that the Plea aforesaid, by him the faid William in Manner and Form aforesaid above in his Replication pleaded, and the Matter in the fame contained, are in no wife fufficient in Law for the faid William to have or maintain his Action aforefaid thereupon against him the faid Charles; to which the faid Charles hath no Necessity, neither is he obliged by the Law of the Land. in any manner to answer: And this he is ready to verify. Wherefore, for want of a sufficient Replication in this behalf, the faid Charles, as aforesaid, prays Judgment, and that the aforesaid William may be precluded from having his Action aforesaid thereupon against him, &c. And the said Charles, Causes of Demuraccording to the Form of the Statute in that case made ter. and provided, shews to the Court here the Causes of Demurrer following; to wit, that it doth not appear, by the Replication aforesaid, that the said Arbitrators made the fame Award in the presence of two credible Witnesses on or before the faid first Day of January, as they ought to have done, according to the Form and Effect of the Condition aforesaid; and that the Replication aforesaid is uncertain, insufficient, and wants Form. 3nd the aforesaid Joinder in De-William faith, that the Plea aforesaid by him the said Wil- murrer. liam in Manner and Form aforesaid above in his Replication pleaded, and the Matter in the same contained, are good and fufficient in Law for the faid William to have and maintain the faid Action of him the faid William thereupon against the said Charles; which said Plea, and the Matter therein contained, the faid William is ready to verify and prove as the Court shall award: And because the aforesaid Charles hath not answered to that Plea, nor hath he hitherto in any manner denied the fame, the faid William as before prays Judgment, and his Debt aforefaid, together with his Damages occasioned by the Detention of
